WILSON TO ASK WAR POWERS OF CONGRESS

Arming of Ships Will Be First Step for Sea Protection.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 18.—[Special.]—President Wilson was at work today on the message he expects to deliver to congress when he appears before the two houses to seek further authority to protect Americans and American ships from the German submarine menace.

When the president will go to congress is a closely guarded secret at the White House, but his chief advisers expect the action before the end of this week, and they would not be surprised if Mr. Wilson were to appear at the capitol for this purpose tomorrow or Tuesday.

PROGRAM OF THE PRESIDENT.

The president desires the following action by congress:

Express authorization to employ the armed forces and all other power and resources of the nation to procure and maintain the safety of Americans and American ships from molestation by any belligerent upon the high seas.

Authorization to commandeer American merchantmen for naval use.

Enactment of the proposed law authorizing the president to direct the operation of the railroads for military purposes and to draft railroad employés into the service of the United States for this purpose.

Provision of an emergency fund of large proportions, probably by bond issue, to be expended by the executive in whatever manner is deemed necessary to effect the desired measures of protection.

BREAK WITH AUSTRIA SURE.

It is not unlikely that the president will make his appearance before congress the occasion for announcing a severance of diplomatic relations with Austria-Hungary. The administration sees little hope of inducing Austria to withdraw from participation in the campaign of ruthless submarine warfare.

It is doubtful that the president will indicate to congress precisely what measures of protection he contemplates adopting, although it is known that he has instructed the navy department to prepare for the arming of American merchantmen to repel submarines. What he wants is blanket authority to do whatever he deems advisable.

These authorizations by congress are to be sought by the president on the ground that after congress adjourns on March 4 the hands of the executive will be tied unless broad powers are granted to him. Mr. Wilson called the attention of administration leaders in congress yesterday to the delay that would ensue if he were compelled to call an extraordinary session.

SEEKS TO AVOID DIVISION.

If the proposition of arming American ships at once were submitted by the president to congress now a marked division of opinion in both houses would be disclosed.

In order, therefore, to disarm the opposition the president is basing his request for further authority on the argument that congress must provide for the adoption of defensive measures when it is not in session and when emergency action could not be invoked. The president's war plans do not include the dispatch of any American war force across the Atlantic or the sending of an army to the European trenches, although he may raise a volunteer army to prepare for unforeseen contingencies.

VIEW OF NAVAL CHIEF.

"We are prepared to arm American ships on short notice," said a navy officer tonight. "It would be a matter of only a few days in the case of ships already fitted with a view to their conversion into naval auxiliaries. In no event should armed convoys be sent across the Atlantic with our ships. That would merely increase the size of the target.

"It is no event will American capital ships be sent into the war zone. There will be no occasion for such a move. England has all the capital ships required to handle the German navy, with a good second in France. Italy is amply able to take care of the Austrian navy. A clash between the United States and Germany can be averted only by either side backing down from the position it has taken. The United States won't back down."

DUPLICATING THE DUMBA AFFAIR

U. S. PLANS ARMY MOVE TO CUBA

Ships Held Ready at New Orleans—5,000 Men May Be Sent.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 18.—[Special.]—Ultimate intervention in Cuba is believed tonight to be inevitable. The army has its plans for intervention completed. A force of not less than 5,000, and probably at least 7,000, will embark within a few days after the order is issued. It is understood that Gen. Funston already has selected the troops for this purpose, and that transports are held in readiness for embarkation at New Orleans.

The general staff plans are understood to comprise at least two expeditions, one at Santiago and one at Havana, unless it is certain that the Cuban government troops at the capital have the situation in hand.

PREPARE TO ATTACK REBELS.

Havana, Feb. 18.—With Ciego de Avila in its hands and communication with that point reëstablished, the government probably is concentrating its forces for an attack on Santiago de Cuba, which city is still in the hands of the rebels. Gen. Rios and Gen. Ramos, at Manzanillo, with 2,000 men, and Gen. Cebreco at Baracoa with a strong force, are preparing to march against the capital of Oriente province.

The partial elections, which were scheduled to be held in Oriente Feb. 20, and which, it was expected, would settle the long drawn out dispute as to whether President Menocal was to serve another four years as president, or step aside for Alfredo Zayas, Liberal presidential candidate, which quarrel led to the present armed uprising, will not be held on that date, the president by special decree having suspended them. A new date for these partial reëlections will have to be fixed by the provincial electoral board.

American Ship in Port.

The American supply ship Dixie came into port this morning from Guantanamo, but it carried no marines, and its visit was said to be purely one of courtesy.

Numerous arrests of supected men are being made at various points in the republic, and reports continue to come in of rebels giving themselves up with their arms, singly and in small groups.

Menocals' Capture Unconfirmed.

SANTIAGO, Feb. 18.—No confirmation has been received of the reported capture of two brothers of President Menocal when the Liberal forces took possession of the Menocal sugar mill at Palma Soriano.

A. N. WATERMAN, SUFFERS STROKE; IS NEAR DEATH

Arba N. Waterman, 81 years old, former Circuit court judge, whose affairs have been much in the public eye of late, suffered a stroke last night which caused his intimates the greatest concern. The aged man was taken to the Hahnemann hospital, from whence it is probable he will not again depart.

Dr. J. Myers and Dr. Leon Harris were in immediate charge of the aged jurist.

Mr. Waterman was stricken at 8:30. He was passing the evening in his Groveland Park home with Dr. Myers.

At midnight the physicians decided there was a chance for the old man's life in an operation. An ambulance was summoned and he was taken to the Hahnemann hospital, where there was an immediate operation. Attorney Edwin A. Munger said there was a slight hope the operation might be of avail and give Mr. Waterman a new lease of life, but it was a last chance.

CONFESSION TO HOYNE DENIED BY PROCHOWSKI

Adam Prochowski, the alleged "master burglar" of the "Gold Coast," is believed to have had a change of heart with respect to confessing burglaries of the homes of the rich, and last night he went so far as to say he has not confessed. A reporter for THE TRIBUNE saw Prochowski in the county jail.

"I have made no confession to Mr. Hoyne," he said. "I made a statement to the state's attorney, but that was not a confession. The statement I made I will stand on. But I have made no confession."

"Will you repudiate the confession given out by Mr. Hoyne?" he was asked.

"There was no confession," he repeated. "I have just been returned from the hospital, and, being a little ill, I beg to be excused from further questioning."

He returned to his cell.

Wide Awake People

Wide awake people always read the wide awake paper. People with energy and ambition, with good gray matter under their hats, always read the paper that has individuality, ideals, aggressiveness, and backbone. Therefore if you want preferred workers put your "Help Wanted" ads in that kind of a paper. In 1916 The Tribune printed 39,746 more lines of "Help Wanted" advertising than any other Chicago paper.

T. R. WILL TAKE ARMY TO EUROPE?

Plans to Raise Force in U. S. to Join Allies' Troops, Report.

New York, Feb. 19, 3 a. m.—[Special.]—The World this morning prints the following:

"The World is informed on excellent authority that Col. Theodore Roosevelt is planning to raise an expeditionary force in the event of war with Germany and to sail to Europe with it just as soon as possible. It is his intention to place this force at the disposal of the entente generals who have charge of the fighting scheme and to lead it in accordance with their ideas.

"Those who are acquainted with the colonel's plans say he is making them with the idea of joining directly with those who are fighting Germany now, any idea which the army and navy officials of the United States may have for conducting a distinctively American campaign to the contrary notwithstanding.

Would Hearten Allies.

"It is declared that Col. Roosevelt feels the sending of an expeditionary force to Europe would give additional zest to the struggle of the allies, and convince them as nothing else could that America is wholeheartedly devoted to the cause for which they are fighting.

"How large a force he would raise would depend entirely upon the conditions obtaining at the particular time at which the United States entered the war. His present plans are known to cover the possible raising of a corps, or even an army of 300,000 men.

May Go to Canada.

"One of the matters which Col. Roosevelt has under consideration is to go to Canada and organize his force there in the event that his plans would interfere with those of the general staff to such an extent as to make the organization of his command here too difficult. It is said that he would not do this except with the tacit consent of the president and the army chiefs.

"In the first instance, the fulfillment of these plans depends upon the consent of the president and his advisers. Should war come Col. Roosevelt would do nothing to embarrass the administration, but those who are acquainted with his scheme believe he would not have much difficulty in convincing Washington that he should be permitted to go ahead."

SINGLE U-BOAT SINKS FOUR BIG WAR VESSELS

Adds 51,000 Tons to Ruthless Toll; One Victim 20,000 Ton.

BERLIN, Feb. 16, via wireless to Sayville, N. Y., Feb. 18.—One German submarine within twenty-four hours sank one auxiliary cruiser of 20,000 tons gross, two auxiliary cruisers, or transport steamers, of 13,800 tons each, and one transport steamer of 4,600 tons, it is officially announced. Thus, one submarine within twenty-four hours destroyed 51,800 tons.

Six steamers and one sailing vessel, totaling 25,000 tons, were sunk Feb. 13. One steamer carried 1,000 tons of hay, 1,500 tons of wheat, and 2,000 tons of oats, and one steamer carried kerosene for England.

A submarine has brought in three captains, two engineers, and one wireless operator as prisoners. Two of the steamers were armed.

REPORT ITALIAN PRIZE.

Details of the sinking by a German submarine of the Italian steamship Bisagno, of 2,552 tons gross, in the Atlantic ocean on Jan. 12, are printed in the Italian newspaper Idea Nazionale, says the Overseas News agency.

The Bisagno was stopped, according to the newspaper, by four warning shots. Because of the rough sea the steamer was then ordered to approach within five miles of the Spanish coast, where the sailors were advised by the submarine commander to throw themselves into the water.

[The foregoing Berlin dispatch contains the first announcement to reach this country of the sinking of the Bisagno. The vessel was last reported in maritime records as having sailed from Genoa, Jan. 5 for Villaricos, Spain.]

U-BOATS SINK 3 SHIPS.

LONDON, Feb. 18.—Three more steamers—all British—were sunk by German submarines during the last twenty-four hours, according to an announcement by Lloyd's shipping agency. The combined tonnage of the craft totaled more than 12,000.

Two members of the crew of the Valdes were killed and nine are reported missing. The captain and other members of the crew were landed.

Following is the list of U-boat victims of the day:

WORCESTERSHIRE (British) — 7,175 tons. Fate of crew not indicated.

VALDEZ (British)—2,235 tons. Two of crew killed. Nine missing. Remainder landed.

ROMSDALEN (British)—2,548 tons. Fate of crew not indicated.

Baltimore, Md., Feb. 18.—The American steamer Borinquen of the Garland line, which sailed from this port in December and later from Fowey, England, for Boston is overdue fifteen days and fear is expressed that it has foundered or been torpedoed.

EMPLOYE OF U. S. ARSENAL SLAIN

Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 18.—[Special.]—Samuel Jenkins, trusted employé of the government, the only man who knew the location of every motor station and electrical device at the Frankford arsenal, was murdered late Saturday night.

Working along the theory that some one at the arsenal wished to remove Jenkins so it might be possible to cripple the electrical apparatus there, the police with the secret service guards employed there interrogated one man whom they suspected. He accounted for his time during the evening, but his alibi is being investigated further.

ARSON CHARGED AS PART OF PLOT

Three Riverside Arrests Promised After Woman Accuses Relatives.

Three Riverside residents will be arrested today as a result of what the state fire marshal's office asserts is not only an arson plot but a scheme to swindle a woman out of property valued at $6,000 to $8,000.

The arrests will be made on warrants issued yesterday following investigation into an incendiary fire which broke out last Thursday night in the home of John V. Weeden, Riverside lawyer and writer, on Herrick road. A lighted candle had been set near home made fuses leading to vast piles of inflammable material.

John V. Weeden was arrested a few hours later, and news of his trouble reached Mrs. Ruth Erickson Sanborn, a sister-in-law of Weeden's mother, Mrs. Elmira Erickson. Mrs. Sanborn at once hurried to Riverside and was startled to find the furniture in the house was that left her by her mother, the first wife of Weeden's stepfather.

Alleges Replevin Was Bogus.

When Mrs. Sanborn left Riverside to go to Canada with her husband, the goods had been placed in storage. Investigation developed that they had been taken out of storage on a bogus replevin proceeding brought, she asserts, by Ernest R. Erickson and John W. Erickson, her brothers.

Deputy Fire Wardens George S. O'Donnell and Thomas Greely spent several days in investigating and yesterday removed Mrs. Sanborn and Mrs. Erickson to Chicago to appear as witnesses.

Accuses Her Brothers.

At the Union depot last night Mrs. Sanborn said:

"The personal property of my mother was left to me. I put it in storage when I went to Canada, but it appears that my brothers, Ernest R. Erickson and John W. Erickson, obtained it by fraudulent replevin proceedings. Some $2,000 worth of my inheritance is missing. I believe Ernest and John tried to destroy the property to get the $5,000 insurance on it and to account for the property Monday morning when probate of mother's estate comes up before Judge Horner."

Insured for $5,000.

Mrs. Elmira Erickson, 68 or 70 years old, who married Mrs. Sanborn's brother, 33 years old, after the fire positively identified the property as hers, thus contradicting Mrs. Sanborn's similar identification. Mrs. Erickson is alleged to have insured the property for $5,000.

Chicago Boy Is Wounded in Fighting Along Somme

POLICE TRAP STAGE COUPLE WITH JEWELS

Baroness' Diamonds Recovered in Cincinnati; Four Arrests Here.

Some $60,000 in jewels contained in a black beaded bag which was dropped in State street Friday by a "Mrs. H. De Wardener," who, it seems, is Baroness de Wardener-Hollub, presumably with noble and diplomatic connections, was recovered yesterday through private detectives and the police.

And in the police station at Cincinnati is the petite blonde woman who picked up the bag. With her there is her husband and the precocious and bebibboned fox terrier which more than anything else led to the couple's divestment of suddenly acquired wealth—wealth which was too great a temptation and led them to flee.

SEVEN UNDER ARREST.

Altogether, seven persons were caught under the spell of the baroness' lost riches, all of whom are under arrest. The two held in Cincinnati are Lillian and James Murray, vaudeville actors, who, with their trained dogs, had been hanging on almost hopelessly in Chicago for bookings for their act.

The others, under arrest in Chicago, and who got some of the jewels or were concerned in their disposition, are:

Harry McCarthy, Hill and Wells streets.

Mike Prunty, a chauffeur, 509 Center street.

Charles Weadley, saloonkeeper, 1145 North Clark street.

Ernest Wiekert, saloonkeeper, Wells and Goethe streets.

Miss Marie Glavin of 2042 Bissell street.

Miss Glavin was with Mrs. Murray when the latter found the gems, and was given a "share," along with McCarthy, her friend, whom the two women met later.

TRAILING THE COUPLE.

The story of the recovery of the De Wardener jewels is one of breathless detective work by William J. Sutherland, head of the Mooney & Boland Detective agency, and many operatives.

It begins with his assumption, from the items of blonde hair and tricks performed by the dog in the E. Burnham hairdressing parlor at 133 North State street, in front of which the black beaded bag was lost, that the finders were of the theatrical world.

There was a canvass of booking agencies, a clew which led to the Murrays' lodgings, to find they had gone, bag and baggage, the discovery of the expressman who had moved them, tracing them to the train, locating their baggage check duplicates, showing Cincinnati as their destination, and finally the telegram to the Cincinnati police, which brought about their arrest.

THEIR CAPTURE DRAMATIC.

There was a bit of the dramatic also in the capture in the Ohio city. Detectives saw the couple as they alighted, apparently seeking a side exit. Murray said his name was Schnell, but a detective, having been wired the number of Murray's baggage check, reached into his pocket and produced the check. The numbers corresponded.

At the police station, still insisting their name was Schnell, Mrs. Murray for a moment laid down her handbag. A detective seized and opened it. Out fell a quantity of jewels that dazzled the little group. Then Mrs. Murray is reported to have said:

"You've got the diamonds—we'll go back. We were poor and the temptation was too great. We had the chance to get away and we took it."

M'CARTHY FALLS INTO IT.

McCarthy fairly fell into the case. Detectives learned he had been "flashing" jewelry in saloons. They got on his trail and found him just as he was tipping tipsily out of a taxicab. In one of his pockets they found a loose pearl, fit for a baroness' coronet.

And it was through McCarthy that the detectives learned of the quarrel over the booty.

But here's the tale:

THE DOGGING OF A DOG

If James and Lillian Murray had not been so attached to their brown spotted fox terrier dog they might have escaped arrest and be enjoying the money they would have obtained through the sale of the jewels.

As soon as William J. Sutherland, head of the Mooney & Boland detective agency, had a complete description of the petite blonde young woman and her companion and the dog. Mr. Sutherland deduced several things.

He knew there were not many people walking around the loop leading dogs. Those who take dogs into the loop usually come in automobiles, or live in or near the loop. The woman who picked up the jewels did not come in an automobile. Hence she must live in a loop hotel or within walking distance.

TERRIER TOO STAGY.

Mr. Sutherland learned that the dog had exhibited signs of training, as related by employés of the Burnham establishment, who told him the terrier had performed several tricks while in the shop with her mistress.

This led him to give orders to search the loop hotels and those on the near north side patronized by members of the theatrical profession. Several operatives were sent to the dramatic booking agencies.

From one of these he learned James Murray and his wife, Lillian, had a dog answering the description given. Also that Mrs. Murray resembled the petite blonde. Operatives on the north side learned that the Murrays lived at 816 West Erie street.

FIND MURRAYS FLOWN.

Accompanied by Sergts. Essig and Darley of the detective bureau, Mr. Sutherland went to the address late Saturday night. They found the Murrays lived in a rear frame cottage. The landlady informed them that they had moved out about 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon. An express wagon bearing the name "Young" had moved their baggage.

At the G. Young Express company, 665 Wells street, the detectives were told the baggage and five dogs, one a brown spotted white fox terrier, had been taken to the Union depot. There it was found, by tracing the baggage checks, that the Murrays had taken the 9:15 Pennsylvania train for Cincinnati.

A telegram was sent to the chief of police at Cincinnati, asking their arrest. At 8 o'clock yesterday morning an answer was received stating that the Murrays had been arrested and that $40,000 worth of jewels were found on them.

THE TAKING OF M'CARTHY

It was about 3 o'clock in the morning that the detectives, accompanied by Miss De Wardener, found Harry McCarthy. He was alighting from a taxicab in an intoxicated condition.

The detectives had learned that McCarthy had been seen exhibiting jewels at the Windsor bar on North Clark street, near Division street. A detective was sent to his residence at Hill and Wells street.

McCarthy confessed that he had received some of the jewels. A huge pearl was found in his pocket. He told the detectives he had disposed of some of the other jewels in saloons. He had just come from a visit to Miss Marie Glavin at 2042 Bissell street, he said. He told them he had given her a valuable diamond ring.

Mrs. De Wardener could hardly repress her joy at the turn events were taking. She stayed with the party all night for the purpose of identifying the jewels.

Sells Diamond to Saloonkeeper.

"I sold the four carat diamond from the center of the platinum plaque to Charles Weadley, a saloonkeeper at 1145 North Clark street, for $125," McCarthy told the police.

Later the police disclosed that the actual disposal of the jewels was accomplished by one Mike Prunty, a chauffeur at 500 Center street. He gave McCarthy the money and was paid for his trouble.

McCarthy said he had borrowed $50 from Ernest Wickert, a saloonkeeper at Goethe and Wells street, on the diamond necklace and diamond plaque. The necklace is valued at $3,000 and the plaque at $1,000.

To corroborate McCarthy's story the detectives went to the homes of the saloonkeepers and took them to their places of business at 5 o'clock in the morning. The necklace and the diamond stone were recovered. Twelve small stones were missing from the necklace.

MISS GLAVIN'S STORY

The detectives then sped to the home of Miss Marie Glavin, in Bissell street. The girl's father opened the door. He was stunned to hear that his daughter was wearing the lost jewelry. The girl gave up the ring—a white diamond stone, weighing two and a half carats.

Miss Glavin told the detectives the details of the finding of the jewels.

"Lillian Murphy and I have been friends for several years," she said. "Friday noon we were walking down State street. When we arrived in front of the Burnham hairdressing parlors Lillian squeezed my arm. She then walked to the curb and looked around.

"She stooped down and picked up a beaded black bag. We both saw that a chauffeur was watching us from his car, a few feet away. Lillian and I walked hurriedly into the hairdressing shop. We had the dog with us.

Bag Full of Diamonds.

"When we got inside Lillian told me she had seen a woman who had just entered before us drop the bag as she was leaving her machine. She opened the bag and we both found it was full of diamonds. The dog started to stand on his hind legs and jump up to some women.

"An attendant asked us if we wanted anything. Then Lillian and I left. We walked down Clark street, where we met a man friend of Lillian's. Then we went to Lillian's home, in Erie street. Here we were joined by Lillian's husband."

THE BOOTY QUARREL

"Miss Glavin told us they poured the jewels out on a table," said Mr. Sutherland. "She said she told Murray she had a friend named McCarthy who knew all about jewelry. He was sent for. They told him they needed money because they were stranded, and wanted him to dispose of the jewels.

"There was a quarrel over the division. McCarthy got the diamond ring, the diamond necklace, minus twelve stones, the pearl ring, and the platinum plaque. Murray kept the rest. He removed the twelve stones from the necklace and kept them as part of his share.

"The next morning Mrs. Murray went to a pawnshop at Clark and Erie streets and pawned the valuable ring for $50. This was the money they used to get to Cincinnati."

The two saloonkeepers, Weadley and Wickert, and McCarthy were taken to the detective bureau. The former are charged with receiving stolen property. McCarthy is booked on a charge of larceny. Both saloonkeepers protested they were unaware the jewels had been stolen.

WHO IS BARONESS?

"Baroness de Wardener-Hollub" is not known among the theatrical profession in Chicago and New York. An investigation revealed this yesterday.

Officials of the Austrian embassy at Washington said her husband, from whom she is said to have taken the title, never was accredited to the Austrian diplomatic service.

The baroness is a sister of Mrs. Ida P. Stehle of 908 East Forty-second place, it is said. Mrs. Stehle was present when the loss of the jewels was discovered. Mrs. Stehle admitted she was a "friend" of the "baroness."

In reporting her loss to the police the woman gave her name as "Mrs. H. de Wardener."

FIGHT TO FREE SKIDMORE AT SPRINGFIELD

With State's Attorney Hoyne holding that he has evidence which makes him ready to go to trial in the police graft cases, an effort to free William A. Skidmore, west side vice lord, will be made before the state Supreme court this morning in Springfield by Attorney Charles P. MacCaulay.

The attempt to free Skidmore will be on a writ of habeas corpus served on the sheriff yesterday by Coroner Peter M. Hoffman demanding that Skidmore be produced in the state Supreme court this morning. A subpoena duces tecum also was served by the coroner on Judge Crowe to appear personally in the Supreme court with documents in the Skidmore case.

As the sheriff was involved in the case it became the duty of the coroner to serve the papers.

The contention will be made that Skidmore is held illegally.

It will be held that after he was indicted and released on $80,000 bonds he was rearrested on the same warrants in violation of the constitution. The Circuit court holds no jurisdiction in the case, MacCaulay will contend.

State's Attorney Hoyne said that another confession implicating Skidmore was obtained during the day. Skidmore is directly accused in this confession of graft paying. Hoyne announced that he is practically ready to proceed with trial against both Skidmore and former Chief of Police Healey.

Mrs. L. Brackett Bishop Hurled Into Windshield

Mrs. L. Brackett Bishop of the Chicago Beach hotel had the unusual experience of making an exit through the glass wind shield of her electric yesterday while on her way to church. Beyond a few facial wounds and the bruises that accompany an impact with a stone, Mrs. Bishop emerged from the wreck smiling.

GIRLS SEIZED AS LURES FOR HOLDUP GANG

Two well gowned young women were arrested by the East Chicago police last night charged with being lures of holdup men who have operated in the north side cabaret district. The names of the girls were not disclosed. One of them is said to have confessed to Capt. Ryan.

The arrest was made on complaint of a man who had been held up on a street corner and robbed. He had been enticed into one of the cafés on North Clark street by one of the young women and had spent his money freely. When he started home he had gone only a half block when he was held up by two robbers. They obtained nearly $100.

The woman who confessed said that she and a number of other girls worked the same game. Their plan, she said was to lure prosperous appearing men into some cabaret. There the men were inveigled into starting home with them. The holdup men did the rest.

The girl who confessed is supposed to have given names of the thieves and the police expect to arrest them.

IGNOBLE PEACE WORSE THAN WAR, SAYS KAVANAGH

"War is the greatest of the three great world calamities, but dishonorable peace is worse than war," said Judge Marcus Kavanagh in addressing the Commanders' association of the United Spanish War Veterans at the Maine memorial services, held yesterday in Memorial hall in the public library.

"The hatred of the world is safer than the world's contempt," said the judge. He also said that those who were responsible for our unpreparedness at the time of the Spanish war were also responsible for putting the clause in the Dick bill making the term of enlistment for the national guard six years, which he said has practically disrupted that organization.

Bishop Samuel Fallows, Gen. George Lee, commander of the department of Illinois, and George Weichelt, patriotic instructor, department of Illinois, U. S. W. V., also spoke.

GREECE STARVING AS A RESULT OF ALLIES' BLOCKADE

Poor Eat Grass, Envoy Says—Food Situation in Russia Critical.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 18.—The Greek legation in a statement issued here today says famine is resulting from the entente blockade of the coast of Greece and the poor classes are living on herbs and grass.

It also is declared that despite compliance with the ultimatum of the allies, there has been no relaxation of blockade measures. The statement follows:

"The Greek legation has received information to the effect that the results of the blockade of the Greek coasts enforced by the entente allies since Dec. 8 are of the most grewsome character.

"Ten deaths from starvation have been reported from the province of Jannina; one at Laurium, ten in Acarnania two in the province of Preveza, one in Eubia, and one in Messina. The poor classes have begun to live on herbs and grass. The epidemics of enteritis and dysenteria are rapidly spreading in the country."

FIX BRITISH POTATO PRICES.

LONDON, Feb. 18.—The war cabinet has decided on the following prices for potatoes:

Growers are entitled to charge $43.79 a ton to dealers until March 31 and $48.65 a ton thereafter, while the selling price for retailers will be $50.40 until March 31 and $57.84 thereafter. The price which a retailer may charge will be 3 cents a pound to March 31 and 3½ cents thereafter, to the end of June.

Premier Lloyd George's intervention in the potato crisis is regarded by the Sunday newspapers as an eleventh hour effort to avert the potato war which has been threatening for some time.

Lloyd's Weekly News says that people everywhere are discontented over the dearth and dearness of potatoes, while retailers are rebellious and refuse to sell at the price fixed by the controller.

Sir Arthur Lee, member of parliament for the Fareham division of Hampshire, has been appointed director of general food production. Sir Arthur will be responsible to the president of the board of agriculture for the coördination and executive control of those sections of the board which deal with the supply and distribution of seed, fertilizers, foodstuffs, labor, and work, and the war and agricultural committees in England and Wales.

Russia in a Bad Way.

As regards the food question in Russia, a Daily News dispatch from Petrograd says its solution is agitating the authorities.

To supply the front, which is never allowed to fall short, leaves an insufficient number of railroad cars for the supply of the rear. The enormous crowds of refugees from Poland and latterly from Roumania crowd the trains and instead of spreading themselves evenly over the country they swell the populations of the big cities, complicating the problem of food supply. But half an hour in any big Russian railway station makes it easy to understand.

At first sight it seems strange to see Russia, the richest country in natural resources in Europe, suffering from lack of bread and wood, the two commodities she was accustomed to export.

Near Bread Famine in Moscow.

The poorer classes are suffering, particularly in capitals. The mayor of Moscow came to Petrograd and yesterday had a long interview with Premier Golitsin. He declared that the prohibition of independent buying by the agents of the town organization and the nonfulfilment of orders by local authorities have resulted in a shortage of wheat and rye flour. He added that unless this is corrected at once Moscow in a few days will be without bread.

U. S. SPUDS AT TOP PRICE.

Caribou, Me., Feb. 18.—[Special.]—Potatoes reached the top notch price of the season yesterday when a deal was closed for 3,000 barrels at $5.40 a barrel for March and April delivery.

Last year at this date the price was $2.75, and in 1915 they were moving slowly at 55 cents a barrel.

Yesterday an automobile agent traded a new $1,100 car for 150 barrels of potatoes for future delivery.

After All It's Quality That Counts

WHEN you consider that laundering or dry cleaning is a service performed on your own garments which you have been so careful to select for their quality of material and beauty of color or design, does it not seem consistent that you entrust these garments to a launderer or cleaner who knows how to handle high grade apparel and make it show its quality and beauty?

We contend also that real economy for persons who use good apparel can only be had by paying enough to assure proper, intelligent care of their garments.

Persons who employ this logic, whether in buying merchandise or service for their own use, are as a rule found in that class of people known as the successful class that gets ahead.

MASSMEETING FOR PEACE HEARS 'BIG PLOT' CHARGE

10,000 Hear Assaults on Preparedness and 'The Tribune.'

Congressman Oscar Callaway of Texas, one of the "little navy" men of congress, speaking before an anti-war massmeeting in the Coliseum yesterday, charged that munition makers, capitalists, American admirals, generals, captains and so-called "metropolitan newspapers" are leagued together to force the United States into the European war. Ten thousand were present at the meeting.

Congressman Callaway called the big newspapers of the country "tools of the munition makers, who are seeking a new market." He termed United States navy admirals, army generals, and captains "war at any cost men who are so used to riding in cushioned automobiles and wearing kid gloves that they believe the rest of the country is growing effeminate."

The massmeeting developed into a "peace at any price" gathering when Callaway asserted that it would be cowardly for the United States, now or at any other time, on any pretext whatsoever, to declare war upon Germany.

The Great Plot.

"Great newspapers got together in 1915 at the instance of the big munition makers and decided then and there to make every effort to get the United States into the war," Mr. Callaway charged.

"Behind this evil influence," he charged, "are the men who own stocks in the munition factories—they are working hand in hand with the newspapers and making every effort to drag this country into the conflict across the seas.

"The Washington press and the metropolitan press all over the country is backing up that effort in the most contemptible movement started against this or any other country. These newspapers have maligned and ridiculed the efforts of the pacifists. These newspapers are trying to make a maelstrom of the affairs of this country."

"Floating Palaces."

The congressman also charged that navy officials know that the submarine is the greatest weapon on the seas but that they are clamoring for dreadnaughts and battle cruisers simply because of "the graft there is in them and because they are floating palaces for admirals."

"How much of the $400,000,000 appropriated for preparedness will ever be put to the use it was intended for?" he asked. "A mighty small part of it will be used to prepare," he charged.

"The United States could add nothing to the strength of the allies by entering the war. They have enough men; they are potent themselves financially, and the United States could add not even a jot of strength on the battle fields of Europe."

"Tribune Evil Tool."

"I personally have been called a coward," he said, "for my courageous attitude in protesting against war. This charge printed in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE is nothing more than an ugly attack from the evil tool of the munition maker."

Callaway charged that recently Gen. Scott at Washington told him that "the purpose of the army is to teach boys to kill."

He then declared that if war is to be declared it should be submitted to the people by referendum. This was embodied in a resolution of the meeting sent to President Wilson.

The Rev. Jenkin Lloyd Jones said the famous maxim of Stephen Decatur, "Our country, right or wrong," has no place in this crisis. "Our country, if it is right," he said, "but we would hardly go so far as to say, 'Our president, right or wrong.'"

Any way out of the German situation is good enough for the United States, he said. Peace, he said, has no ultimatum, and does not wait for an overt act.

Herbert S. Bigelow of Ohio, Grace Abbott of Hull house, Ald. J. C. Kennedy, and Robert H. Howe, Socialist party secretary, were the other speakers. The Rev. Fred A. Moore, director of the Open Forum, presided.

Kennedy Attacks.

Kennedy attacked THE TRIBUNE for its stand on preparedness.

"THE TRIBUNE preaches preparedness and a solid front, if we are to have war," he said. "Now, let me tell you this: Don't be misled; we of American liberties have no offense to take in this crisis. Our liberties are not at stake at all.

"If we are to have a war, it should be a war against ignorance in this country. This country is more threatened from within than from without."

Kennedy told how Socialists of Russia and Austria revolted when they were told to fight.

Some one in the balcony at this juncture cried: "We'll all stop work if war is declared!"

The disturber was silenced by shouts of disapproval.

Resolution to Wilson.

The following telegram was sent to President Wilson:

We, 12,000 citizens assembled in the Coliseum and with thousands more turned away, believing that not only the lives of our young men and our material wealth, but our stores of good will and international sympathy should be treasured, and knowing that if the United States now joins in this world war, the lives and property of American citizens will be further endangered and our opportunity for leadership in the establishment of an international organization for the preservation of world peace will be jeopardized, we urge that American citizens and American vessels be warned against entering the war zone.

Believing also that war should be undertaken only as the expressed and deliberate choice of the people upon whom its burdens will chiefly fall, we urge that the will of the people be ascertained by a referendum vote before a state of war is allowed to develop between this people and any other government.

The meeting ended with the playing of the "Star Spangled Banner."

COPPERHEADS

That's What Dr. Myers Likens Anti-War Shouters To.

THE anti-war meeting at the Coliseum yesterday was likened to the copperhead meetings in ante-bellum days by the Rev. Johnston Myers in his sermon last evening at the Immanuel Baptist church on the subject of "The Crisis."

"There were those who hindered and limited the power of Abraham Lincoln by calling the war unnecessary and by protesting against Lincoln's determination to maintain a united country by force of arms," he said.

"We call the persons who acted in that way at that time traitors to their country. We praise those who stood by the president as loyal men and true. We are in a similar national crisis today. The president has all the facts in his possession, and it is our business to stand by him, forgetting all of our party affiliations. I am not a Democrat, and I didn't vote for Mr. Wilson for president, but I believe in this crisis we ought to have a united country, and that meetings of the kind held in the Coliseum and the kind of a propaganda Mr. Bryan is engaged in hamper the president and is nothing less than treason."

RUTH LAW FLIES 'MID AIR FLEETS HIGH OVER PARIS

Chicago Girl Marvels at France's Sky War Equipment.

BY RUTH LAW.

[Copyright: 1917: By Press Publishing Company (New York World).]

PARIS, Feb. 18.—Through my good fortune in having found a friend in one of the leading French airplane constructors, my fondest desire has been realized. I have flown with him in an airplane above Paris, amid scores of other aircraft and beautiful, big dirigibles that looked pink in the glow of the afternoon sunlight. They floated around me and we darted among huge battle cruisers of the air with real cannon mounted on their snub noses.

These "gun machines," as they are called in the army, are employed to attack enemy airships—Zeppelins—while whole squadrons of little wasps, such as the machine in which I was a passenger, are used to drive off the enemy wasps that accompany and protect their big, slow moving dirigibles.

Visits Aviation Center.

Le Bourget, seven miles northeast of Paris, is one of the centers of aviation in France. Escorted by a young French captain, I was permitted to inspect all the different models.

I stared wonderingly at the group of fine looking boys, all trained pilots, who stood beside their airplanes awaiting orders to go up. There seemed to be no end to them. To these boys flying is a pleasure, as could be seen easily from the antics through which they put their machines. Looping loops, diving, tail spins from great heights, rolling over and over in the air, and steep banking were among the stunts they performed for a small but admiring group of spectators.

Flies Over Paris.

With a young manufacturer, M. Morane, I went up for a flight over Paris. Before I had time to catch my breath we were climbing at an alarming angle—almost straight up in the air it seemed.

The speed was the greatest at which I had ever flown, and I wondered how the frail little wings held together under the terrific strain. My extra weight as a passenger did not seem to have any effect on the little machine's climbing ability. We darted in and out among fleecy clouds, and once I leaned over the side to look down. Then I realized what speed and tremendous wind pressure meant. I thought my head would be blown off. All the breath was knocked out of me.

Pass a Big Dirigible.

At an altitude of 3,000 feet we flew close by a big dirigible. Our craft passed so close to the big airship that I could see the men of the crew in the gondola-like car swung beneath the huge, translucent gas bag.

I had by this time become accustomed to the tremendous speed, and as we flew toward the city the spectacle was the most inspiring I ever saw. Along the white, winding roads I could see snake-like caravans of army automobiles. I saw the Eiffel tower jutting into the sky and the Sacre Coeur church on the summit of Montmartre and the huge Arche do Triomphe.

Then we flew back to the field. The most interesting flight I had ever undertaken had come to an end all too soon. My hat is off to the French—their aerodrome, airplanes, and aviators are wonderful.

AUSTRIA THINKS BREAK WITH U.S. MAY BE AVOIDED

Vienna Still Hopes Good Relations Will Continue.

VIENNA, via London, Feb. 18.—Despite the fact that some of the newspapers are taking a gloomy view of Austro-American relations and the situation brought about by the severing of relations between the United States and Germany, official circles in Vienna are inclined to believe that the situation is not hopeless. This also is the view of Frederic C. Penfield, the American ambassador.

At this moment there are two indications, though possibly they are of little weight, which permit of the conclusion that Washington is not contemplating an immediate break with Austria-Hungary. One is the transfer to the embassy here of Joseph C. Grew, former secretary of the embassy in Berlin, who arrived tonight from Switzerland to assume the duties of counsellor of the embassy, a post which is vacant at present owing to the illness of Ulysses Grant Smith, now in the United States.

Jewish Relief Fund Sent.

The second indication arises from the fact that Secretary of State Lansing yesterday wired here, on behalf of various Hebrew charity organizations, the sum of $250,000, the amount having been donated by American Hebrew societies. At the embassy here the opinion was expressed that the United States government might not have transferred this sum had a break between Washington and Vienna been even tentatively decided on.

At the foreign office no conjectures are indulged in regarding what the near future may bring. The fact that the two governments are unable to communicate their views more freely than the present conditions permit has made the exchange of opinions slow and unsatisfactory.

Uncertain on Demands.

The Associated Press is able to say that the Austro-Hungarian government remains in almost total ignorance of what measures are needed in order to meet the views of President Wilson and his cabinet. The impression here is that in Washington it is believed the dual monarchy will recede from the position taken jointly with Germany regarding submarine warfare.

The feeling here, however, is that while the Austro-Hungarian government might consider small modifications of the new blockade regulations, as Germany has done in the case of Holland, there is not the slightest chance that it will yield so far as the principle involved is concerned.

Few people have shown much bitterness here against the American government, though what has been termed "the unfairness of Washington" has resulted in much disappointment. The public and the government alike take the stand that President Wilson has denied the central powers the right of self-defense in depriving them of the only effective weapon at their disposal.

U. S. RUSHING AERIAL WORK

Washington, D. C., Feb. 18.—[Special.]—Extraordinary efforts are being made to rush the aviation branches of the army and navy into a state of preparedness. Every plant in the country that can turn out an aeroplane or a part of one is being urged to complete machines for the government and as fast as planes and instructors are available thorough training is being given to the numerous applicants who are appealing for a chance to fly.

In three bills before this congress nearly $20,000,000 is carried for aviation—the largest appropriation ever made for this branch of the country's armed forces.

GREEK ROYALISTS AND VENIZELISTS ADHERENTS RIOT

Rival Groups Battle with Chairs at Coliseum War Meeting.

Bitterness between Greek royalist and constitutionalist advocates precipitated a riot yesterday when nearly 5,000 persons of Hellenic descent responded to a call for a massmeeting at the Coliseum Annex.

Just before the time set for the meeting to open the band in the gallery struck up the "Marseillaise," the French national anthem. It was the signal for hostilities between advocates of the Greek constitutionalist government, headed by former Premier M. Venizelos, and so-called royalist supporters.

In a second the annex was in an uproar, chairs were brought down upon heads, and men met in individual and collective fistic encounters. The disturbance threatened to disrupt the anti-war massmeeting which was being held in the main part of the Coliseum.

Police Stop Hostilities.

Police rushed into the annex from the anti-war meeting and stopped hostilities. About 300 royalists were ejected from the meeting. No arrests were made, but policemen remained in the annex to maintain peace.

The purpose of the massmeeting was to pledge the fealty of Chicago Greeks to the United States, and to listen to speeches of representatives of the Venizelos constitutionalist government.

With quiet restored, resolutions were adopted calling on President Wilson formally to recognize the Venizelos government. The resolutions embodied a pledge of loyalty of Greeks at the meeting to the United States.

Venizelos Envoys Speak.

Pano Aravantinos and D. Kafantanis, personal envoys of former Premier Venizelos, were the principal speakers. D. Palalexoponto, J. Yannicosta, officers in the Greek navy, and D. Arristedes, a captain in the Greek rebel army, also spoke.

A fund amounting to several hundred dollars was subscribed to aid the Venizelos government.

TWELVE SHIPS, ONE AMERICAN, OFF FOR EUROPE

New York, Feb. 18.—Twelve steamships, one of them flying the American flag, sailed from here today presumably for European ports, which will necessitate their passage through the "prohibited zone" announced by Germany. Three vessels that came through the restricted area, one of which was of American registry, arrived here.

The City of Pueblo was the lone American vessels sailing today.

REPORT TO SHOW BRITISH ERRORS

LONDON, Feb. 19, 3 a. m.—The report of the Dardanelles inquiry, which now is completed, will be made public in a day or two. The Express says it is understood that it will contain some surprisingly frank criticisms of soldiers and statesmen. Two eminent outstanding figures—one of them no longer among the living—come under the severely critical observations of the committee.

ALUMNI URGED TO JOIN SERVICE OF RED CROSS

Chapter Here Needs Men to Fill Units for Eventualities.

In an appeal to complete its enrollment of 2,000 men the Chicago chapter of the American Red Cross has called upon the alumni of Harvard, Yale, Princeton, Michigan, Illinois, and Cornell universities.

Enrollments are wanted for the eleven branches of service in time of war. These are ambulance companies, base hospitals, hospital units, surgical sections, emergency nurse detachments, sanitary training units, information sections, refreshment, supply depots, general hospitals, and convalescent homes.

It is pointed out that while the enrollment is for two years, enlistment in the regular army is not mandatory should war be declared within that time. It is merely hoped that enough men will be in training so that in case of hostilities there will be a sufficient number of skilled volunteers. Inasmuch as the regular army examinations must be passed, those who are accepted will not be delayed by further examination when a call comes.

Feminine preparedness is to have a new expression. It is to be directed in the channels of home consumption and the apprentice seamen at the Great Lakes naval training station.

Mrs. Frederick D. Countiss—she acquired the title of general at the National Service school at Lake Geneva last summer—will call for women volunteers this morning to begin making robes for our own youths first.

"Many of Capt. Moffett's men are really in need," said Mrs. Countiss, "and we shall install two more knitting machines in room 1402 in the Stevens building and ask for volunteers at once to start sewing and knitting. The boys must have socks, and robes, and other things which are on the list."

The knitting machine can turn out a sock every twenty minutes.

SWISS ACT TO FEED BELGIANS

GENEVA, via Paris, Feb. 1d.—It is officially announced that the Swiss government has decided to begin overtures with interested states concerning the feeding of the people in the occupied portions of Belgium and northern France. It is purposed to replace Americans of the Belgian relief commission by Swiss citizens if the Americans should withdraw from the occupied zones. Negotiations with Spain with this object in view are in progress.

FRENCH FRONT

BRITISH

LONDON, Feb. 18.—The prisoners we took in yesterday's operations (on the Ancre) number twelve officers and 761 men. We also captured a number of machine guns and trench mortars.

This morning strong enemy forces attacked our new positions on the spur above Baillescourt farm. The enemy infantry, advancing in three waves, with bodies of supporting troops in the rear, came under the concentrated fire of our artillery and were driven back with heavy losses. Our lines were not reached at any point. We suffered no casualties.

We entered German positions during the night southwest and also northwest of Arras, south of Fauquissart and north of Ypres. We inflicted many casualties on the enemy, blew up a machine gun, and took nineteen prisoners.

Hostile raiding parties were repulsed during the night south of Ypres. We secured prisoners and inflicted a number of casualties. There was considerable mutual artillery activity today in the neighborhood of Bouchavesnes, in the Ancre area and in the Ypres sector.

GERMAN

BERLIN, Feb. 18.—Army group of Crown Prince Rupprecht: After lively fire preparation strong English reconnoitering detachments tried to enter our trenches north of Armentieres, southwest of Lille, north of the La Bassee canal and near Ransart. They were repulsed partly in hand to hand fighting, during which prisoners remained in our hands, and partly by our fire.

After the failure of his attack on Feb. 16 south of Miraumont the enemy, in the course of the night, increased his artillery fire and when morning came attacked on both sides of the Ancre river. In the engagements which continued during the day and were subject to frequent changes we took prisoner 130 men and captured five machine guns and then abandoned to the enemy our most advanced crater positions.

On the south bank of the Ancre violent English attacks were repulsed and all our positions were maintained.

On the Rives Oise, near Dreslincourt (southwest of Noyon), an advance brought in for us fourteen prisoners.

Army group of Crown Prince Frederick William: In the Champagne our new positions south of Ripont and on the west bank of the Meuse and our trenches in the Bois le Pretre were actively shelled by artillery and mine throwers. Attacks were not carried out because of our annihilating fire.

AVIATION

On the night of Feb. 17 one of our airships extensively bombed the town and port of Boulogne.

FRENCH

PARIS, Feb. 18.—In the course of the night there were patrol encounters at various points along the front, notably in the sectors of Troyon (southeast of Verdun) and Chambrettes, to the northwest of Badonviller.

In the Bois le Pretre a detachment entered one of the enemy trenches and destroyed the works and sheds there. There is nothing to report from the rest of the front.

NIGHT STATEMENT.

Nothing of importance occurred during the day except a fairly lively artillery action on both sides of the Meuse, especially in the regions of Bezonvaux and Hill No. 304. Last night an enemy surprise attack on one of our trenches north of St. Mihiel failed.

BELGIAN

PARIS, Feb. 18.—There was patrol activity during the night in the region of the Ferryman's house. This morning lively fighting with bombs and artillery took place in the region of Steenstraete and Het Sas. The bombardment was intermittent on the rest of the front.

FRENCH DEPEND ON 'SYSTEME D' TO WIN THE WAR

They "Debrouiller" While the British "Muddle Through."

BY ROBERT HERRICK.

PARIS, Jan. 27.—The French have an amusing word which these days is in constant use—the verb debrouiller and its derivatives. It means literally to get oneself out of a tangle or mess—a mixture of hustle and improvise, which is wholly French.

The "systeme D," as it is jocularly called, has perforce been in constant operation since the invasion, when France found herself badly crippled, with iron and coal mines and a good part of her factories taken from her.

And nothing so arouses admiration for these wonderful people as the evidences of the way in which they have "debrouillé"—hustled and improved what was lacking; it is the exact opposite of the German method of prudent foresight. The "systeme D" has been imposed on France because she was caught unprepared, but I am sure it respond to a need of French nature—the French like to "debrouiller," and they will never lay up supplies in advance as the Germans do.

Shell Factory Example.

The other day I visited a vast establishment in the outskirts of Paris for the making of shells. It is a wonderful example of "systeme D." A year ago there was nothing there. Two months after ground was broken for the first buildings the concern was turning out shells. Today it is making 32,000 shells a day in this one establishment and building extensions. Nine thousand women and 3,000 men are employed in the acres of buildings—and this is but one and not the largest of the munition factories that have sprung up according to the "systeme D" to supply France and her allies with guns and munitions. For now the French make a good part of the munitions for Italy, Russia, and Roumania, besides all that is required for their own armies.

Great improvements have been made in the manufacture of shells since I went through a factory a year and a half ago. They are no longer bored out of a solid bar, but stamped out rapidly as one would make tin pans. This change must have increased the productivity many times.

Women run the machines, but as a rule men do the harder work of lifting the pieces of white hot steel, the more skilled tasks of testing the metal, and for every new process there is a foreman to direct the work. The women as a rule are remarkably healthy, strong, capable, and quick. They earn not less than 8 francs a day.

Women Learn to Strike.

The women munition workers have learned to strike for higher wages; they cannot be as easily managed as the men, who would be sent into the trenches if they made trouble.

The making of lead bullets to fill the shrapnel shells was the most impressive of all the processes that I saw. A half dozen immense stamping machines stamped the bullets out of dozens of ropes of lead with a terrible rhythm.

Millions of bullets rolled out of the hoppers. These skilful machines stamping out the missiles of death are also ending warfare; it is becoming too much a matter of industry, too professional. It is no longer war; it is suicide on a vast scale.

BRITISH DEFEAT MANY ASSAULTS ON NEW POSITIONS

Beat Off Efforts of Enemy to Retake the Ground Lost on Ancre.

BY ARTHUR S. DRAPER.

LONDON, Feb. 18.—The British gains on the Ancre Saturday were consolidated and extended at a few necessary points today, while three heavy German counter attacks were repulsed with heavy losses, and without casualties to the Britons. The total of prisoners taken in the push has now reached 763, including twelve officers.

The German statement admits the abandonment of "our most advanced shell craters," after hand to hand fighting.

The German counter attacks on the Miraumont positions were unusually heavy, and sustained an evidence of the fact that the British advance is reaching a point where it seriously threatens the more important German defenses.

Battle of Major Proportions.

The steady British advance toward Miraumont and the German attack in the Champagne on Friday were on a scale much bigger than anything since Gen. Nivelle's success at Verdun. And both show that the time is near for the real spring blow.

Even if the British hold their fire for a time longer, the Germans are expected to open hostilities at any moment. The fact that they did not follow up their advantage in the Champagne merely shows that they were fighting there, to mask the real operation which is due any time now.

Battle a Deadly One.

Reuter's correspondent at British headquarters in France, telegraphing Sunday, says:

"In the battle which began in the neighborhood of Miraumont Saturday morning and has continued intermittently ever since, the fiercest struggle was to the left of the center, where the British sought to get the mastery of a mound rising about forty feet, with a sunken road across it.

"The Germans realized the great tactical value of the mound and had it fringed with machine gun emplacements and ribbed with trenches, and strenuously disputed the British advance up the slope. It was deadly fighting, but the British steadily pressed forward until they had almost gained the crest."

At one point on the British front today a German was seen running across "No Man's Land" with his hands above his head. He was fired on from his own line and killed as he reached the British wire.

GERMAN LOSSES MOUNT HIGHER

LONDON, Feb. 18.—Casualties in the German army, exclusive of colonial troops, reported in the German casualty lists in January, 1917, totaled 77,534 officers and men killed, wounded, prisoners, or missing. The total compiled from the list follow:

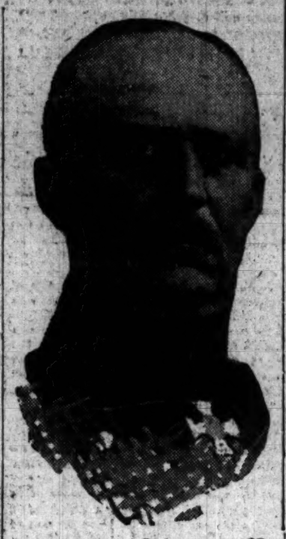
Killed and died	15,906
Prisoners	1,645
Missing	11,874
Wounded	48,109
Total	77,534

These casualties bring the total of German killed and those who died of wounds or sickness to 988,326 and the total casualties since the war began to 4,087,692.

Boss of All Kaiser's Realm Is Gen. Von Ludendorff

GENEVA, Switzerland, Feb. 18.—Germany now has a real "boss" in Gen. von Ludendorff, first quartermaster general. The hand of Field Marshal von Hindenburg's chief of staff and trusted colleague now is felt not only in his strategic determinations and directions of the armies of the central powers, but reaches out into Germany's whole economic and social life.

All the threads not only of military control but also of civil administration, food distribution, industry, agriculture and finally even of German foreign relations, all of which now are subordinated to military requirements, now run ultimately to the chateau at the Silesian country seat of the Prince of Pless, where Gen. von Ludendorff sits with the great field marshal, Von Hindenburg, at imperial headquarters.



Gen. Von Ludendorff

Controls All but Army.

Where a purely military decision is in question, Von Hindenburg's name is usually cited as the determinant authority, but in all other great questions in the forefront of German policy in recent months, such as the introduction of universal auxiliary labor service, the conversion of German industry to an absolute war basis, the transfer of Belgian workmen to Germany, the tightening of the food distribution regulations and finally unrestricted submarine war, the prophecies of coming decisions in informed circles were almost invariably accompanied by the self-explanatory remark, "Ludendorff ist dafür." ("Ludendorff is for it.")

The talented general staff officer, who in the exciting days of August, 1914, when the original German commander in the east, Lieut. Gen. von Prittwitz und Gaffron, had determined to retire before the superior Russian forces, was hurried eastward with Von Hindenburg from imperial headquarters to save the situation, has extended to all of Germany the system which he introduced in the east.

His first decision was to remedy as far as possible the error of Gen. von Falkenhayn, former chief of the general staff, who had attempted to fix the figure for the maximum consumption of munitions and had sadly underestimated the required amounts.

Munitions "Uber Alles."

Gen. von Ludendorff's determination was to produce not the amount of guns and munitions, which experts might calculate as necessary, but the maximum amount of which Germany's industries were capable, and he subordinated everything else to this purpose.

From this came Germany's grandoise scheme of mobilizing the entire labor supply in direct service of the army. The idea of the compulsory employment of Belgian labor in German industry, it now may be stated, also was Gen. von Ludendorff's not Gov.-Gen. von Bissing's.

The Krupps, August Thyssen, the iron magnate, and other big industrial leaders of Germany, go direct to Gen. von Ludendorff for consultations and directions regarding the production of munitions and supplies.

He Rules the U-Boats.

Thyssen last autumn brought from Von Ludendorff the word that there would be no ruthless submarine war, which the Associated Press sent in an interview to the American press, and it was again from the chateau at Pless, after the rejection of Germany's peace overtures had changed the situation, that word came in January that the ruthless submarine policy had received the stamp of approval.

It is an open secret that the farming classes are "holding out" food supplies from the general stock for the nation's necessities. It was reported at the time of the departure from Berlin of the correspondent of the Associated Press that the task of getting from the farmers the full amount of agrarian surplusage, in which Von Batocki's food department, backed by all the authority of the civil administration, has failed up to this time, now will be taken in hand by Gen. von Ludendorff and enforced by the most stringent military measures.

All these decisions and determinations, of course, are covered by Field Marshal von Hindenburg's name and authority, but the field marshal leaves such nonmilitary problems almost exclusively in the hands of Von Ludendorff—the man who, as far as that is possible, is the dictator of Germany.

WHY GERMANY FREED CAPTIVES

BERLIN, [By Wireless to Sayville.] Feb. 18.—After it had become known in Berlin through the official communication of the Swiss minister here, says the Overseas News agency, that the American government had neither confiscated German ships nor had made prisoners the crews of German ships—as originally had been reported in Europe by a news agency dispatch—the German government immediately ordered the release of the Americans brought to Germany on the steamship Yarrowdale and asked the Spanish ambassador, Polo de Bernabe, so to inform officially the American government at Washington.

COWBOYS CROSS INTO MEXICO TO AVENGE MATES?

Reported Lem Spillsbury Leads Large Band from Hachita.

El Paso, Tex., Feb. 18.—[Special.]—A band of American cowboys, variously said to number from 60 to 150, led by Lem Spillsbury, is reported to have left the Corner ranch, forty-five miles southwest of Hachita, N. M., and to have entered Mexico for the purpose of avenging the murder of A. P. Petersen, Burton Jensen, and Hugh Acord, American cowboys, by Mexican bandits of Gen. Ynez Salazar's command, who raided the Corner ranch last Monday night.

Owing to the lack of wire communications it was impossible to confirm the report, but it was generally believed.

A report that Gen. Villa had gone in disguise to the west coast and taken a ship for Japan on a political mission has been known to Carranza officers and officials here and in Juarez for several days, Eduardo Soriano Bravo, the Mexican consul here, said tonight.

"Villa has not been accounted for since he fled to Parral after his defeat at Jiminez about six weeks ago," the consul said. "We have had many reports that he was in different places, but no evidence. However, we are inclined to doubt the story that he has gone to Japan. That may have been invented to account for his absence. His friendliness to the Japanese gives it plausibility. It is believed more likely that he is in hiding in the mountains, either to try to reorganize his bands there or because he is sick or wounded."

Señor Bravo said he heard that the raid on the Corner ranch was used by Salazar as a diversion in order to smuggle ammunition over the border.

Boy Scouts to Serve U. S., but Not in the Ranks

The Boy Scouts of America will not as a unit take part in war in the event of hostilities with Germany. This was announced by James E. West, chief executive scout, in Chicago yesterday.

"Boy Scouts will not be acceptable for military service because of their youth," said the official.

"This, however, will not restraint Boy Scouts from rendering definite service. Over 200,000 boys are enrolled as Scouts, and 350,000 boys within the last seven years have had scout training. Each member may be of service in some capacity."

FRENCH CHEER GERARD, SHARP; U. S. AIRS RING

PARIS, Feb. 18.—James W. Gerard, the former American ambassador to Germany, was the guest of honor at a luncheon given at the foreign office by Premier Briand today. A distinguished company was present, including the diplomatic representatives of all the entente powers having ambassadors here.

Mr. Gerard was accompanied by the American ambassador to France, William Graves Sharp, and both were recipients of many marks of cordiality.

Ambassador and Mrs. Gerard and Ambassador and Mrs. Sharp later attended a performance at the Trocadero for the benefit of the Canadian hospital at St. Cloud. Shouts of "Bravo!" greeted their arrival.

Both ambassadors bowed their acknowledgments and the orchestra ceased playing in order to give way to the band of the Republican guard, which immediately marched on the stage and played the "Star Spangled Banner."

DR. RITTER ACTED WITHOUT ORDERS?

Flat Feet, Broken Arches and Weak Ankles
CORRECTED BY
Larson's Anatomic Sta-Right Shoes

Do you suffer with pains in the small of your back or the calf of your legs, or do your nerves twitch in your lower limbs; have you pains in the insteps and ankles? Have you thought these were rheumatic pains? Thousands of people come to me each year that have thought they were rheumatic pains, but they are caused by torn ligaments, strained nerves and muscles in the instep or misplaced bones in the instep which are pushed out of place and cause a disturbance throughout the whole system. These pains are a warning that the arches are breaking, and unless given support flat feet will result. The Larson Anatomic Sta-Right Shoes are re-enforced with steel plates at the insteps—adjusted to meet the requirements of each individual.

OUR RAILWAY MUDDLE.

The condition of American transportation in the present circumstances ought to be a sharp lesson to the country. If congress were inclined to act in advance of the public recognition of an evil instead of waiting for opinion to become vociferous and irresistible, it would now be tackling the whole problem of railway regulation and formulating a well rounded system which should allow of the full development of our transportation facilities parallel to our economic growth. Congress, however, has shirked this task and either ignored or tampered with the crude machinery we set up nearly a generation ago. The men who initiated regulation were thinking only of preventing the imposition of extortionate rates. It was like putting a brake on one wheel of a wagon and screwing it down. The result in the case of our railroads has been certain specific benefits in moderate rates, but also the general evil from which we are now suffering.

THE TRIBUNE is not disposed to go over the mistakes of the past. They were conspicuous, costly, and distributed among all parties concerned. Extortionate rates, rebates, piratic financing, diversion of earnings, official graft, lopsided regulation by public agencies, unfair taxation and complicated exactions, want of foresight and public spirit in management, demagogic politics in regulation and legislation; in short, a legion of ills imposed upon an economic, financial, and engineering achievement which was an example of American enterprise to the world and the greatest single factor in the amazing material progress of the United States.

But what we have to think of today is our present conditions. The railroad systems of the country are not sufficient to handle a situation which has been developing under our noses for two years. Their equipment is inadequate, and the whole country is suffering directly and indirectly from its inadequacy. It is as if some necessary function of the body were suddenly arrested. When this happens health is arrested and life is endangered.

In spite of the tremendous business done by the railroads since the revival after the ante-war and war depression, fewer miles of track were built last year than in any year of depression since 1893. Arizona, Colorado, Iowa, Missouri, Nebraska, New Mexico, South Dakota, Texas, Utah, and Wyoming had no additions made to their trackage, and the increase for the year in the entire country was less than ½ of 1 per cent of the total in operation. Rolling stock and equipment were not increased or even maintained.

Railway securities fell off in price as if business had collapsed and large net earnings have not brought them up. New capital was not flowing into this industry because there was a general feeling that investment in railway securities had a dubious future. Regulation by forty-eight states and by the nation, heavy taxation and multiplying exactions, fear of labor pressure, and uncertainty as to public policy checked investment. The railways in this vital respect were starving.

If our railways are to be privately owned this is an impossible situation. Capital for expansion must be assured or the result is deterioration of transport facilities, which will mean deterioration of all American business.

The railway problem is the most important economic problem before us. We are having a sharp proof of its gravity. When is congress going to take it up and establish a broad, constructive, well-rounded system of regulation which shall protect public rights while encouraging such development of the railways as is necessary to our continued prosperity?

LEGALIZED BOXING.

The reluctance of the legislature to legalize boxing in this state does not arise from the individual opinion of the assemblymen. A safe guess would be that not more than twenty members of the legislature would remain away from a boxing match because of reasoned or conscientious objections to boxing. Their reluctance arises out of their fear of scandalizing opinion in their districts.

Their districts are scandalized because the promoters of boxing usually try to make boxing scandalous. A bill divorced from the influence of boxing promoters might recommend itself to the legislature. One plainly tainted with it will not. The legislator does not see why he should take a chance of getting in bad in his district to give promoters a chance to make money. It would be a good thing for the state if it had a decent boxing law.

RESULTS WOULD BE WELCOME.

Any great public project requires watchful criticism in the public interest. The two problems now most conspicuously before this community are no exception to the rule. The reorganization of our interurban transportation facilities is of immediate personal concern to every individual in Chicago and presents a problem of the utmost complexity. We all want it solved and solved as well as it can be considering the variety of the interests and rights involved. We therefore have wanted it well considered and all proposals carefully scrutinized.

The gas rate problem is less difficult, but what we have said applies to it. In both cases all the public seeks is a square deal for all concerned and the most beneficial arrangement compatible with justice and public policy.

There are many proponents and many critics in both the traction matter and the gas matter. Let us grant to each honesty and disinterestedness of purpose. Let us concede that all are able and none moved by considerations of private ambition or ulterior advantage.

Yet the gas consumer and strap hanger would probably like to exchange a little accomplishment for some of the perfection aimed at by the champions of public weal. It is pleasant to fight to the last ditch against selfish private interest, but after all in public affairs as well as private the fallibility of even the most virtuous criticism makes compromise desirable as well as profitable. The city has had the benefit of the very best experts obtainable. Their recommendations have been criticized freely. The strap hangers and the gas consumers would like to get some concrete benefits during their lifetime. Each month they pay their bills as usual or ride downtown in the same unpleasant conditions. That means a daily loss of cash and comfort must be charged off against the advantages their militant champions are fighting for. If they go on fighting long enough the benefits won, if any, may not counterbalance the loss which a prolonged fight piles up.

In private business men get together. Why cannot our traction and gas problems be solved without interminable wrangling?

A CAMPAIGN OF HATE?

When it is announced that President Wilson and Secretary Baker are considering universal military service as a means to national defense, it is reasonable to suppose that the alternatives of universal service are before them.

These alternatives are enough to stagger any American who thinks. Chairman Dent of the house committee on military affairs excused the cut in army appropriations on the ground that there can be no increased army under present law. Why, he asks, lay aside money for an army which does not exist and cannot exist? He confesses that the present army bill is a failure.

If we cannot rely on the present army legislation and are unwilling to adopt universal service a volunteer citizen army is the only way out. How are we to get a volunteer army now?

John Jones, making good money in the city and considering matrimony, will enlist in a volunteer army only when one or both of two conditions exist. There must be in his mind active fear of a specific enemy or active hate of a specific enemy. If John is convinced that the Japanese or the Germans or the Mexicans are likely to invade our country, fear will cause him to enlist. His fear or the fear among his neighbors. Or if he has read terrible stories about Mexican torture and rape, or atrocities of Germans or Japanese until he is convinced that they are wholly hateful and must be punished, he will enlist. He will not enlist for training against an indefinite, undetermined enemy in preparation for a crisis he does not believe immediately threatening.

To raise a volunteer army of sufficient size there must be organized campaigns of hate or campaigns of fear. To persuade John Jones and James Smith to enter the army we must—in this crisis—call all the Germans Huns, reprint the stories about abductions of young girls from Liege, the spitting of babies on bayonets, tell how their airmen murdered women and wounded, and generally inflame public sentiment with hate. There must be individual motives, not national motives, for going to war. Volunteer armies depend upon mob psychology for their being. The members of them have been inflamed or they would not be members. Could there be any surer way of forcing us into war than such a condition?

In the United States at this time raising a large volunteer army is unthinkable. We ought not to have a publicity campaign of hate against the Germans, but do what we must do calmly and resolutely because it is necessary for us, as a nation, to do it.

Volunteering for army service presupposes, except for a few adventurers, a definite and hateful enemy. As such the volunteer system precipitates war. It is bad enough in ordinary times. Today, on account of the German-American, it is unthinkable. If we are to have any land defense it must be from a conscripted army—an army which does not have to be born of hate or fear. If the president and secretary of war want any land defense it must be an army built up on universal service.

THE SHORT BALLOT.

Primary election law changes have been considered in nearly every session of the legislature for the last twelve years and each time with increasing insistence that the system in itself is wrong.

What the primary election laws have endeavored to do is to give the state an escape from nominations made by a few men or, as they were occasionally, by one man. That has been done.

What the proponents of direct nominations did not perceive with clearness was the complexity of the system. The complexities are dangerous because they put a greater burden upon the information possessed by the voters than ought to be placed upon it.

The voters may be as well equipped to decide in a primary election on candidates for governor as they are to decide in the final election. Their information may be sufficient for their decision in such cases and be hopelessly inadequate in the case of minor offices which attract a large field of candidates, few of whom become identified.

The difficulty in the operation of the primary law is greater than that encountered in general elections, but it is of the same character and it is open to the same remedy—reduction in the number of elective offices.

The short ballot can be obtained in a new constitution.

WHAT KIND OF CENSORSHIP?

[From the New Republic.]

Against a poisonous campaign of hate a press censorship will undoubtedly be necessary. We urge the government to consider whether its powers should not include the right to suppress any attempt to harass the Greman-Americans. The systematic and unjust persecution of so valuable an element of our population might well constitute the gravest peril to our safety and power. We ask the government in establishing a censorship to put in charge of it civilians liberal and sensible enough to value free discussion and realize that the worst enemy of genuine patriotism is the patriotism of the gutter. For the prevention of physical disorder the government is fairly well prepared. It should move at once to prevent the insidious destruction of morale which comes from the hatred displayed by those who masquerade as patriots.

THE GERMAN KNITTING NEEDLE.

One of the singular conditions out of the many arising from the war in Europe is that for some reason not clearly explained the efficient German is the only person now extant who knows how to make a really first class knitting needle. There exists already in the United States a famine which knitting needles "made in Germany" alone can assuage. Numbers of textile manufacturers in this country have been forced to limit the output of their knitted goods, and hundreds of thousands of workmen and their families have been affected by the necessity because of the knitting needle shortage.—St. Louis Times.

THE BY NO MEANS NEGLIGIBLE GROOM.

[From the Ohio State Journal.]

The bride was dressed in a conventional wedding gown of white. The groom wore a flowing black coat with an elaborate white vest decorated with real pearls. His shoes were of black with real lace shoestrings. Imported gray broadcloth trousers of the latest cut and make, white gloves and a white cravat of fine Indian linen, together with collar, shirt and handkerchief of similar material completed his perfect costume. For a traveling suit, the groom wore a tailored suit of blue serge with handsome tan shoes and imported felt hat.

'It needs cutting badly,' said the barber. 'It usually is,' replied the composer, who was impatient to return to his work. . . ."

MOISTURE IN AIR.

FOLLOWING are some of the things I have learned in trying to humidify my five room house, which is equipped with hot water heat:

In the first place, theoretically my house contains a total of 7,000 cubic feet—4,007 downstairs and 2,963 upstairs, with an open stairway leading to the second floor.

Assuming that 40 per cent relative humidity is nearly right, my house at 70 degrees should contain 22,624 grains troy of water. In Chicago at 32 degrees and 60 per cent relative humidity the same space of air outside would hold 8,874.6 grains.

According to Prof. E. P. Lyon, the air in the house changes about ten times in twenty-four hours. On this theory 226,340 grains of water, less the amount of water contained in the air at 32 degrees, or 88,746 grains, would have to be evaporated. This gives the total amount of water to be evaporated.

If the air in the house was changed twenty times in twenty-four hours (Bryce says twenty-four times), it would be necessary to evaporate five gallons, less one gallon, or four gallons. At zero outside temperature it would be necessary to evaporate about three and one-third gallons, less one gallon, or two and one-third gallons, if the air changes ten times; or six and two-thirds gallons, less one gallon, or five and two-thirds gallons, if the air in the house changes twenty times.

The above calculations may be open to grave error, as my deductions are only those of a layman.

I have tried only two humidifiers, as I have considered the Buddington and the Flobun the only ones on the market worth trying. With six Buddingtons I have evaporated from fourteen to twenty-two quarts of water per twenty-four hours; with one Flobun I obtained only one-third to one-half of this amount. Four of the Buddingtons did not evaporate as much as the other two, as they are not placed where they received the maximum amount of heat service.

The relative humidity in my house has been from 38 to 45, depending upon the condition of the weather outside.

The objection that Prof. Lyon raises to the fact that the wicks clog I have not found true where Chicago water is used, as it is easy to change the wicks end for end, when the lime will readily dissolve. I have used two pairs of wicks for over four months without being able to notice any loss of efficiency.

I have found with a relative humidity of 40 the furniture does not come apart, floors and stairways do not creak, the temperature of the rooms can be lower, and there is less chance of catching cold. The only objections I have found are [1] the trouble to keep the pans well filled; [2] that Jack Frost will paint the windows.

I might add that I have checked my hygrometer with a sling psychrometer, so that I feel safe when I say that I am obtaining a relative humidity of 38 to 45.

CAN BE CURED.

J. E. M. writes: "I had an attack of gonorrhea twelve years ago and was supposedly cured by a good physician. Now after three years of married life I apparently have a light touch of the same complaint. Unacquainted in the city I visited a physician who claimed I had never been really cured, was in great danger myself and had probably infected my wife, would have unhealthy children, must take treatments, etc., etc. I decided this man was a quack and called on another physician. This doctor refused to make an examination, claiming he would have nothing to do with that particular disease, but encouraged me by the statement that the disease if not cured in 1905 had spent itself long ago and could not possibly be infectious now. (1) Is there any danger of infection after the lapse of nine years? (2) Could a wife become infected and not know it? (3) Could children inherit the disease? (4) Is there any public, not charitable, institution where reliable examination could be made and at what expense?"

REPLY.

1. Yes. Your present trouble is due to a lighting up of your old infection, in all probability.
2. No.
3. No. Both answers 2 and 3 refer to your case as indicated by the history given.
4. You can be cured. Place yourself in the hands of any physician specializing in that line.

CAUSES OF BAD BREATH.

A. M. R. writes: "What are the causes of foul breath? Could a person be affected with catarrh, tonsilitis, or lung trouble without knowing it? (I have my teeth attended to regularly.) Is there such a thing as bad blood causing it?"

REPLY.

Bad breath can be caused by constipation, intestinal putrefaction, nose trouble, including catarrh, and bad tonsils, or bad teeth. It can be caused by mercury poisoning. What to do for any case depends on the cause in that case. My opinion is that intestinal putrefaction causes more cases than does any other single cause. Most physicians disagree with that opinion holding nose and tonsil conditions to be the worst offenders.

LA MARQUISE DE FONTENOY

[Copyright: 1917: By the Brentwood Co.]

DATRELL MONTAGUE CRACKANTHORPE, who some seventeen years ago was attached to the British embassy at Washington, has just been appointed counselor of the British legation at Athens, with the object of assuming the duties of chargé d'affaires there during the impending absence of Sir Francis Elliot in England. Crackanthorpe has an American wife in the person of Ida, only daughter of the late Gen. Daniel Sickles by his second wife, and it may be recalled that Mrs. Crackanthorpe, who has been a pretty woman, was obliged to institute legal proceedings in order to secure possession of property settled upon her at the time of her marriage.

Through her mother Mrs. Crackanthorpe has both Spanish and Irish blood in her veins, a rather fascinating combination, which probably accounts for her peculiar grace and art in dancing. In fact, it was her character dancing that attracted the attention of King Edward to her husband and to herself and they were on several occasions included by his directions at house parties organized in his honor, or else were asked to Sandringham. Mrs. Crackanthorpe was one of the features of the Bradley Martin fancy dress ball in New York, costumed as Queen Louise of Prussia.

Her husband, who married her at Madrid while attached to the British embassy there, has seen service also at Brussels, at Bucharest, at Vienna, and at Tokio, where he acquired a knowledge of the Japanese language. He owns a country seat, known as Newbiggin hall, in Cumberland, as well as an estate of about 6,000 acres there, and belongs to a family that has during the last 200 years acquired considerable note in the legal profession, his father having been an eminent king's counsel.

A brother of his, gifted and rather erratic, met with his death in Paris under most mysterious circumstances which have never been cleared up to this day. He was missing for four months, and then suddenly his body was found floating in the Seine.

Count Adolf Montegias, who as chief of the American bureau of the department of foreign affairs at Berlin, endeavored to bully ex-Ambassador James W. Gerard into giving his signature to amendments to treaties concluded between Prussia and the United States more than 100 years ago, and who even went so far as to threaten the detention of all Americans in Germany until this was done, has an American wife. She is a daughter of Charles S. Haseltine of Grand Rapids, Mich., who was American consul at Milan, in Italy, under Cleveland, and she met Count Montegias at Tokio, where she was spending the winter as the guest of the then American ambassador and ambassadress, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Bryan, the count being secretary of the Austrian embassy there. He had been previously attached to the German embassies at Washington and at Constantinople, and since leaving Tokio has been assigned to duty in the department of foreign affairs in the Wilhelmstrasse at Berlin.

The count belongs to a family which is of French origin and which emigrated along with so many other members of the French aristocracy at the time of the great revolution at the close of the eighteenth century, when its head, Maximilian de Garnerin de la Thuille, Comte de Montegias, entered the service of the ruler of Bavaria, becoming his grand chamberlain, his most trusted confidant and counselor, and his prime minister.

It may be recalled that this Bavarian monarch, who received his promotion from the rank of prince to that of king from Napoleon, was very French in his sympathies and affiliations, eventually giving his favorite daughter in marriage to Eugene de Beauharnais, the son of Empress Josephine by her first marriage. So it is quite natural that he should have selected a Frenchman as his premier.

Several of the Montegias family have been in the Bavarian and Austrian diplomatic service, and one of them was formerly first secretary and chargé d'affaires of the Austrian embassy in London, from which, however, he was obliged to resign under the imputation of having made use of information contained in confidential government dispatches to speculate on the London stock exchange, and also with having communicated official secrets to the late Baron Hirsch. The affair partook of the nature of an international scandal and created a great sensation at the time.

Another Count Montegias, Edward by name, is Bavarian minister plenipotentiary at Dresden, while still another occupies high rank at the court of Stuttgart as grand master of the horse and chamberlain to King William.

Count Albert Montegias was for a time employed in a German-American banking house in New York and at the outset of the present war was engaged in the cigaret business on the Pacific coast.

Mention was made in a letter printed the other day dealing with conditions at Stamboul of the Turkish aristocracy, and this has led a reader to address an inquiry to me as to what the aristocracy consists of in Turkey.

Strictly speaking, there is no nobility in the ordinary sense of the word in any Moslem country. The only aristocracy of birth is descent from the prophet. Yet it is a descent highly prized and invariably recognized. It is often indicated by the hue of the turban. Descendants of the prophet are to be found in the very humblest walks of oriental life, and in Turkey, as well as in Egypt, one may occasionally hear a high official or a rich merchant address a beggar imploring alms, or a street hawker who is crying his wares, as "Ya emir" (O prince), when the latter is recognizable by his headgear as a descendant of the founder of Islam. The latter, that is to say Islam, insists that all Moslems are brothers, and it is no insolence on the part of a servant to address his master as "Ya akhi" (O brother), or any derogation for the master to thus hail his servant.

Of course, the members of the reigning houses in the oriental countries enjoy a certain amount of preeminence. But after a few generations they become merged in the population; and as for the descendants of great dignitaries of the realm such as grand viziers, cabinet ministers, victorious commanders, and governors of provinces, they become lost in the multitude as early as in the third generation, and derive no benefit whatsoever from their ancestry.

SUIT CLUBS.

Chicago, Feb. 16.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—I am a member of a suit club, paying in 50 cents per week. Their contract reads that they agree to sell to the holder of this contract any $30 suit, overcoat, or article of jewelry in stock at the rate of 50 cents a week in advance for sixty weeks. Persons wishing to discontinue can have their merchandise by paying the balance due up to $30 on their contract. This firm has just given notice that they are going to discontinue business in a few weeks, and that we must come in and pay up the difference still due on our contracts before we can get our merchandise. As they wished to cancel their contract, I demanded that they fulfill their contract or else give me the money which I had paid in. They refused, but offered to give me a pair of trousers for what I had paid in, or anything in the jewelry line. What can I do about it? READER.

These contracts are illegal, because they involve gambling. Since you are a party to the illegality, you have no remedy in a court. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

SUE IN MUNICIPAL COURT.

Chicago, Feb. 16.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—What is the best way to collect a labor bill and how soon can you make the party pay it? Where will I go to see about it? Can you take a lien on a building and material and hold it till you get your wages? C. E. M.

1. Sue in the Municipal court. Attorney fees can be recovered on a wage claim.
2. Put the matter in the hands of a lawyer.
3. Not unless you acted as a contractor.

WOULD NOT BAR DOWER.

Escanaba, Mich., Feb. 15.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—Would a will leaving minor children sole beneficiaries to insurance, but preventing testator's wife from participating therein, be held legal in Michigan or in any other state? W. D.

Yes, but it would not bar the widow's right to dower, to an award, etc.

BOOK CONTRACT.

Chicago, Feb. 14.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—My wife signed a contract for books. They have tried to deliver them, but so far have not succeeded. In the meantime we have found out that the woman who solicited the order grossly misrepresented the books. Is my wife responsible for them under these circumstances? Am I liable for any part of this transaction? READER.

If the book itself is as represented, the purchaser is not released from the contract by the falsity of the immaterial representations as to the seller's school connection. If it is not as represented, it can be refused. The husband is liable for "expenses of the family" incurred by the wife. The answer to your question would depend on the character of the book and the condition of your family. Our guess would be that if your wife's contract is valid, you are also bound. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

THE ONE YEAR RESTRICTION.

Fort Wayne, Ind., Feb. 15.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—I received a divorce in Illinois and on the back of the copy I have is a clause forbidding remarriage within one year. Does that refer to Illinois alone, or does it forbid marriage in every state? C. G.

It means that a marriage, no matter where contracted within one year, is not valid in Illinois. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

WAIT TILL MONTH EXPIRES.

Chicago, Feb. 16.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—A rents a house to B, who has not paid rent. A gave B a thirty day notice in writing to vacate. What further steps must A take to recover possession? Must A wait until the expiration of the thirty day notice before taking further steps? Can A sue and recover for month's rent covered by the thirty day notice? LANDLORD.

A is not obliged to give thirty days' notice to B since B is in default. A can give ten days' notice and if B does not move can sue in forcible detainer to recover possession of the premises.

If A wishes to recover the month's rent it must wait till the month has expired. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

A WORRIED MOTHER.

Indiana, Feb. 16.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—I believe in fighting if our country is invaded, and I believe in universal service, but I do not believe in going out of our way to find trouble. I have two fine sons in college. In case of war both would have to go, as they are taking military science with their other studies.

My husband has been a heavy drinker for eighteen years. He is abusive and an irritable nagger. In case of war he can stay at home, and so can the hoboes and degenerates, to protect the women, children, and old men, while my two splendid boys I raised to be useful, constructive citizens can be used for cannon fodder—the boys who are to help the rest of the brothers and sisters to an education. Is this just?

Why have war because daring, foolhardy Americans have the price of a steamship ticket and the capitalists are money hogs? Is there no other way to settle this matter besides bloodshed? I hope all the world isn't going back to savagery. Let at least our nation remain sane. I hope first to be a Christian and next an American.

A WORRIED MOTHER.

PATRIOTIC CHICAGO!

Chicago, Feb. 18.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—In this morning's TRIBUNE I read that the total number of enlistments in the regular army for Chicago and vicinity during the past two weeks has not quite reached 350 men.

At this rate, in case of a war with Germany, it would take about 1,000 weeks to raise in the entire middle west an army of 500,000 men.

It is evident, therefore, that if fighting in such a cause by the United States is to be done it will be to the enthusiastic and loud crying patriots of Oyster Bay, Back Bay, and Murray Hill that we must look mainly for the soldiers who desire to fight and die in the trenches of Flanders for England.

BLANDINA VAN ETTA.

HOPELESS!

Chicago, Feb. 17.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—Why do you and Representative Madden and Minority Leader Mann fuss so because of the omission of the mental test in appointing southerners to lieutenancies in the marine corps? Or perhaps you may know of some process whereby a southerner can be made to react to such a test! In any event, I suggest that you quit trying to stir up sectional feeling by objecting. I'm not a southerner, but I have a sense of fairness and see no reason why you should expect mental tests from southerners when Californians, classified as northerners, can't pass them. F. D.

WHERE THIS SOCIALIST STANDS.

Chicago, Feb. 17.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—As an American born citizen of native Americans, like Ald. Kennedy, I am not supporting the Wilson administration in its war policy, and I shall not do so, but no pusillanimous truce-teacher like you can sit in judgment on my patriotism.

I do not subscribe to the treasonable doctrine, at the head of the editorial columns of your dirty, traitorous sheet, which is everlastingly preaching hate, distrust, and war against every nation and doing all in your power to bring my country into war against friendly nations. Your paper is a trouble maker and ought to be suppressed for the good of mankind. You belong to that dangerous class of patriots who profess love of country for the dollar you can make out of it, and you are not qualified to pass judgment on patriotism, for your understanding does not take you to so high a level. I, like Ald. Kennedy, am a Socialist, and a Socialist is one who cannot be bought or sold. I don't follow the leadership of blatherskites like you, and unless my country can command my services for an honorable cause I WILL BE FOUND IN THE RANKS AGAINST HER, and if demagogues like you could be suppressed there would be no danger of war. I am, truly,

C. F. MICHLER,

NOTHING DOING.

Chicago, Feb. 17.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—As to Stephen Decatur's motto, "Our Country! Right or Wrong," may I suggest that the quotation on its face indicates prejudice and a lack of real moral principle? It invites one to swerve from that which he may believe to be right. Would not your editorials carry greater weight if preceded by a more moral quotation? In any case, it is not only offensive to me, but to many others whom I have heard mention it, and I suggest that you eliminate it from your paper. WALTER M. FULLER.

UNIVERSAL TRAINING.

West McHenry, Ill., Feb. 16.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—If every mother and father could be made to absorb the last half of the editorial on universal training you reprinted they would not oppose military training for all. Furthermore, the idea of a "school teacher" in "Voice of the People" a few days ago had the right sound. "Why wait until 17 years old? Begin the training in early years."

I feel the need of this training very keenly, as I have been in a position to come in contact with many who have not the least conception of it. M. F. P.

G. O. P. ROUNDUP URGED TO NAME MANN SPEAKER

Plan Is Backed by a Group of "Preparedness Progressives."

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 18.—[Special.]—A conference of all Republican members of the next house is being strongly urged for the purpose of determining what can be done to elect Representative Mann speaker, Representative Lenroot floor leader, and to put forward a constructive legislative program.

A new group of "preparedness progressives" is behind this movement. They have carried their plans to the point of strongly urging the committee of twenty-seven to call such a conference and are bringing much pressure to bear to win their point.

Some talk is heard among Republicans to the effect that Representative Mann may be ousted as floor leader of the Republicans in the next house if the Democrats organize the body. If the Republicans organize the house they plan to make him speaker.

The recent utterances of Representative Mann on the floor of the house in regard to the present international situation have caused some eastern Republicans to say that Mr. Mann is not the ideal head of the Republicans in the house.

New Party Alignment?

Talk also is heard to the effect that there may be an entirely new party alignment in the next house. In addition to the Republicans who have shown signs of revolting there are also a number of Democrats who do not like the existing order. Signs are not lacking that Majority Leader Kitchin may head a revolt among the Democrats and effect a fusion with pacifist Republicans to organize a pacifist wing of the house.

On the other hand, preparedness advocates on both sides of the house are coming closer together, and it would not be at all surprising if a bipartisan combination of preparedness advocates should be effected.

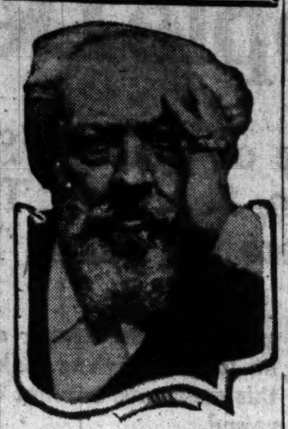
One of the "preparedness progressive" members of the next house today called attention to the present situation in the house and urged that the Republicans organize to do what they could, not only to make the house organization Republican, but also to support energetically the preparedness moves of the present administration.

Plan for Future Urged.

"Apparently the present congress will adjourn without providing for military preparation adequate in the event of probable war," he said. "Therefore it is our duty now to make plans to that end. It will be our part to vote the military supplies for which the administration asks, for us to support it in the crisis, and, it may be, to make military provision for the country's safety in excess of that asked by the administrative heads of the army and navy."

Carolus Duran

Born 1838. Died Feb. 18, 1917.



Carolus-Duran

PARIS, Feb. 18.—Emile Auguste Carolus Duran, the painter, died today.

M. Carolus Duran was born at Lille in 1838. He resided for a time in Spain and Italy. He was grand officer of the Legion of Honor and a member of the institute. He painted many portraits, among them that of Pope Pius X.

M. Duran was most famous for his portraits of women, though he also won great renown as a painter of men.

He received $20,000 and his expenses for a Vanderbilt portrait which he came to America to paint.

Duran painted the portraits of the dowager queen of Portugal, the Duchess de Parmella, the Countess de Pourales, the Countess Vandal, the Baronness Hottinger, the Marchioness d'Adda, the Princess Obolinsky, the Princess de Wagram, Emile Girardin, Henner, Gounod, Gustave Doré, Alphonse Carr, and in America those of Mrs. Deacon, Mrs. Gardner, Miss Nannie Leiter, Mrs. Pulitzer, Mrs. Astor, Mrs. Ayer, and a great many others.

SETTLE TROUBLE ON $70,000,000 SHELL CONTRACT

New York, Feb. 18.—[Special.]—The controversy between the Bethlehem Steel company and the British government over a Russian ammunition contract has been settled, Charles M. Schwab, head of the steel company, announced tonight. The contract, it is said, covered 5,000,000 shells, costing $70,000,000.

One-third of the shells had been made, it is understood, when Great Britain, which was to pay for them, refused payment of a $10,000,000 draft. Mr. Schwab, announcing the settlement tonight, said:

"It disposes of the only matter in connection with the business of Bethlehem Steel which has given me any serious concern. Now the Russian government can count on receiving its shells regularly, while the Bethlehem Steel company will be protected as to its profit and its large investment in the contract by a satisfactory settlement of the specifications and a new schedule of deliveries and payments."

PREPAREDNESS CHIEFS RETURN FROM WARFEST

Dr. F. H. Martin and Julius Rosenwald Here from Washington.

With the return from Washington yesterday of Julius Rosenwald and Dr. Franklin H. Martin, Chicago becomes for the time being the national center for the mobilization of raw materials, and medical men and supplies.

During the week Mr. Rosenwald and Dr. Martin attended daily meetings of the advisory commission of the council for national defense of which they are members. Mr. Rosenwald was named chairman of the committee on raw materials, and Dr. Martin chairman of the committee on medicine and sanitation.

Together with the other chairmen they are charged with coördinating all the activities of the government and the nation in order to bring about rapid and efficient mobilization of men and resources in the event of war.

They are authorized to enlist the assistance of government department heads and members of the cabinet as well as to appeal to congress. One of their most important functions is to act as an intermediary between the cabinet and congress. Besides the two Chicago men, the other chairmen include: Samuel A. Gompers, labor; Howard A. Coffin, supplies and munitions, and Daniel Willard, transportation.

"As a war measure," he said, "nothing could be more advantageous than the creation of this commission and the work it is doing. My committee, for instance, is working toward getting physicians and supplies on the basis of an army of 1,000,000 men and a navy of 100,000. We are to furnish surgeons at the ratio of ten to each 1,000 men. We must be prepared to 'produce' at any time without previous notice."

LABOR SUGGESTS WAR IF WILSON IGNORES PLEA

Denunciations Develop in A. F. L. Debate in Bomb Plot Case.

A suggestion that President Gompers of the American Federation of Labor send a note to the United States government "notifying it that organized labor declared war" stirred up a meeting of the Chicago Federation of Labor yesterday.

The statement was made by Albert Green of the painters' union in the course of denunciations of the financial interests and legal machinery of San Francisco—a subject brought up as the result of the sentencing to death of Thomas Mooney, a California labor leader, found guilty in connection with the preparedness parade bomb plot last September.

"$1,000,000 'Open Shop' Fund."

Before Green obtained the floor another delegate declared President Gompers should demand that President Wilson start an investigation into a $1,000,000 "open shop fund" which labor leaders declare was started by the San Francisco chamber of commerce.

Green went several steps further and the other delegates gasped when he had finished.

"There is no such thing as justice for organized labor in California," he said. "Out there they are hanging and imprisoning labor leaders right and left.

"What we ought to do is to send a communication to President Gompers asking that he take up this matter with President Wilson. Then, if justice cannot be obtained, let President Gompers send a note to the government letting it know that we declare war."

Workmen "Need Guns."

Another delegate declared that members of labor organizations "needed guns to protect themselves from the capitalists." One Pennsylvania factory, he said, is at present engaged "in making iron clubs for the heads of American workingmen."

RUSS MINISTER ATTACK VICTIM?

BERLIN, Feb. 17.—[By Wireless to Sayville, Feb. 18.]—The Overseas News agency today gave out the following news items:

"Admiral Grigorovitch, the Russian minister of marine, was attacked on the streets of Petrograd by two unknown men with revolvers. The admiral, who showed great presence of mind, was not hurt. His assailants escaped.

"Eleven members of the Russian duma belonging to the Socialist party have been arrested by the Russian police on a charge of fomenting a revolution.

"The coal depots of the Siberian railroad have been burning for a week. It is considered probable that the loss as the result of the fire will reach 30,000,000 rubles."

Clinching Dealers' Good Will

"How can we improve our dealer service?" This is an important and often puzzling question to every manufacturer and distributor. Harley-Davidson Motor Company saw the importance of backing up good service with better accounting methods. They wanted to make sure of their monthly statements going out on time so that they might give the dealers better accounting service. They found a way. Read how they did it:

"When we purchased Elliott-Fisher Bookkeeping Machines for writing our statements and posting the ledger at one operation, we did it with one primary object, namely: to give better accounting service to our dealers. Our statements leave our office promptly, without fail, on the first day of each month.

"In addition to this service which we are now able to render to our dealers, we have also gained in that we are able to have our books balanced right up to the minute. This is truly efficiency and we cannot say enough for Elliott-Fisher Bookkeeping Machines."

Your accounting service is judged by your statements—their appearance, their accuracy and their promptness of arrival. Elliott-Fisher Machines will help you. They mechanically prove every entry and give you the pleasure of working with a perpetual balance and proven figures.

We shall be glad to explain more fully, without obligation on your part, how others render accounting service with Elliott-Fisher Machines. One of our accounting specialists will call if you telephone "Franklin 1391" or write Elliott-Fisher Co., 1207 Peoples Gas Building, 122 South Michigan Avenue.

SILENCE SAVED DR. SCHUETTLER'S LIFE, CHIEF SAYS

If Doctor Had Told Name Robbers Would Have Shot, He Thinks.

Refusal of Dr. Arthur F. Schuettler to tell the two men who robbed and beat him at Sheridan road and Sunnyside avenue on Saturday night his name may have saved his life, is the belief of Chief of Police Schuettler, the young man's father.

"The robbers grasped my son from behind and because of his recent operation he was unable to protect himself," said the chief yesterday. "They asked him his name as one of them pushed a gun into the wound made by the surgeon's knife. The boy had presence of mind enough not to tell it. If he had, I consider it probable that the robbers would have blown his brains out."

Like Any Other Robbery.

Chief Schuettler showed a disposition to treat the robbery as he would any other. He said he had ordered the "story" given to the newspapers.

The chief announced that he will try to get the use of the $8,000 appropriated by the city council for automobiles this week, and, if the money is available, he will purchase sixteen small automobiles for the pursuit of bandits.

Dr. Schuettler was still confined to his bed at night. His condition was said to be improved, however. Surgical experts will examine him today to ascertain whether another operation will be necessary.

Held as Suspects.

Two young men, giving the names of Leopold Nash and Harry Hatt, each carrying a revolver, were arrested at night on the north side in an automobile, thought to be stolen, bearing an Indiana license plate, on the suspicion that they were the bandits who robbed and beat Dr. Schuettler. Dr. Schuettler, accompanied by his wife and some friends, went to the Town Hall station and looked at the prisoners.

"There is some resemblance," he said later, "but I could not positively identify them."

Store at Busy Corner Held Up.

Within fifty feet of Milwaukee avenue and Robey street, one of the busiest corners in the city outside of the loop, and while hundreds of persons were waiting for and changing cars at that point, two armed men entered the United Cigar store, 1588 Milwaukee avenue, shortly after 10 o'clock at night.

One man, pulling a $20 bill from his pocket, asked for a package of cigarets. Irving Charness, the clerk, turned from the cash register after making the change to find himself gazing into the muzzle of a revolver. The men backed him into a room at the rear of the store and locked the door.

Later Charness managed to free himself and found $310 had been taken from a cash box and the cash register.

LID TILTERS IN "SAFETY ZONE" PUT IN CELLS

Nearly one-half of the arrests for violation of the Sunday closing law yesterday occurred in the Thirty-third police precinct, known as the Rawson avenue district. There were ten arrests in this district and twenty-two in the city.

"The large number in this district is due to the fact that we made extraordinary efforts to catch violators and also to the number of ignorant saloonkeepers in the district," said Lieut. John Meehan, the station commander. "Many of the saloonkeepers wanted to know what they were arrested for. There are quite a few would-be policecians in the district and they have been promising protection to some of the saloon men, who thus felt reasonably safe."

Those arrested in the Rawson avenue district were:

Gust Drager, 1959 Cortland street; Barney Belter, 1434 Noble street; Roman Martin, 1414 Elston avenue; Stanley Ostrowski, 1424 Blackhawk street; Jacob Swatkowsky, 1412 Oak street; Adam Ziemak, 1401 Dixon street; Simon Sielmanowski, 1554 North Ashland avenue; Kolcassa & Zybar, 1672 Elston avenue; John Kuta, 1388 Branch street; and Frank Wolcek, 1126 Hickory street.

Among the other twelve places where the police found violations and made arrests was the saloon at 75 West Randolph street, conducted under the name, Thomas Moran Inc. A policeman found John Walsh, a bartender, serving drinks to eight men.

SPECIAL TAXES RAISE BIG SUM FOR GERMANY

AMSTERDAM, via London, Feb. 18.—An explanatory note respecting the German budget for 1917 issued in Berlin today says:

"The necessary means for carrying on the war will be raised when required by means of special war credits. The ordinary expenses in connection with the state debt require at present $715,200,000 in order to effect a balance.

"In the ordinary budget the revenue from hitherto existing war taxes is not sufficient and the deficit of $250,000,000 will be covered by a new war tax. It is intended to impose an ad valorem tax on coal on the output at the collieries and, as an extraordinary war tax, to impose a surtax on passenger goods traffic on railways and internal shipping.

"Credit for exchequer bills is increased to $600,000,000 and the uncovered contributions of the federal states are estimated at $10,400,000.

"Regarding the revenue, the increase in customs is estimated at $8,200,000; total receipts $15,080,000; increase in tobacco, $440,000; war surtax, $17,400,000; increase in stamps on bills of lading, $15,000,000, and the stamp on Dutch goods trade, $45,000,000.

"The tax on wealth is expected to produce $18,000,000, and the shares of the state in post and telegraphs, $45,000,000. The estimated revenue from all war taxes, namely, $350,000,000, is $15,400,000 in excess of the previous year."

NEUTRALITY OF SPAIN STIRS UP HEATED DEBATE

MADRID, via Paris, Feb. 18.—Spanish neutrality was the subject of animated discussion in the cortes last night, when several deputies, including Señors Rodes and Garcia, questioned the premier, Count de Romanones, on the attitude of the government in the war. Deputy Rodes demanded an explicit statement upon the motives actuating the government's policy and upon what it proposed to do.

The premier, in reply, said that the government was, above all, neutral as between the two opposing elements, and had shown its attitude very distinctly in the action taken in connection with several moves by the United States—one, the invitation to intervene for the reestablishment of peace, and, another, an invitation to declare war against Germany.

Deputy Rodes, interrupting the premier, said that this declaration by Count de Romanones was incorrect, because the United States had never invited Spain to declare war. Amid considerable excitement in the chamber, caused by this remark, the premier replied that in reality the United States had invited Spain only to break off diplomatic relations with Germany.

The premier closed the debate by declaring that the government would maintain with pride its neutrality and would defend all points of its note to Germany protesting against the submarine blockade.

Certain-teed

Above everything else CERTAIN-TEED stands for quality, efficiency and economy. Any product bearing the name CERTAIN-TEED will deliver all three in heaping measure.

Certain-teed Roofing is the most efficient type of roofing for all kinds of buildings. For the sky-scraper a built up roof of CERTAIN-TEED is now recognized as ideal.

For factories, especially where the roof area is considerable, the light weight, economy and long life of CERTAIN-TEED makes it by far the most desirable type of roof. For garages, out-houses, farm buildings, the economy, ease of laying and long life make CERTAIN-TEED superior to any other. For residences CERTAIN-TEED Slate Surfaced Shingles are artistic, light weight, economical.

CERTAIN-TEED costs less to buy, less to lay, and less per year of life. It is light weight, clean, sanitary and fire retardant. It will not dry out or rust, and is absolutely weathertight. CERTAIN-TEED is made in rolls, plain and slate surfaced; also in slate surfaced shingles. Three thicknesses, but only one quality—the best. Guaranteed 5, 10 or 15 years, according to thickness (1, 2 or 3ply), but will outlive the period of guarantee.

The long life of CERTAIN-TEED is due to its quality and the saturation of a special blend of soft asphalts, kept soft, and prevented from drying out, by a coating of harder asphalts.

If you are building, or need a new roof, it will pay you to investigate CERTAIN-TEED before deciding upon any type of roof. For sale by dealers everywhere.

Certain-teed Paints and Varnishes

Made by experts and mixed by modern machinery—every can exactly conforms to the chemists' formula, both as to ingredients and color.

With modern facilities for manufacturing a full line of paints and varnishes, on a large scale; with unlimited resources, and the extensive sales organization of the Certain-teed Products Corporation, costs are materially reduced, and CERTAIN-TEED Paints can be sold for less than good paints usually cost.

The professional painter can not mix his own paints and compete with CERTAIN-TEED Paints any more than the small shoemaker can compete in price and style with the big shoe factories. It is better, both for the painter and the man who pays for the job, if the painter uses CERTAIN-TEED Paint. All uncertainty is eliminated, waste and left-overs are avoided, and the quality is assured.

Besides, CERTAIN-TEED Paint is guaranteed to give satisfaction. Instead of the painter's guarantee you have the guarantee of a business which has become the largest of its kind in the world, because it makes and sells good goods at lowest possible price, and backs them with all its enormous resources.

If you paint, it will pay you to use CERTAIN-TEED. If you employ a painter, insist, for his own good as well as yours, that he use CERTAIN-TEED Paints.

Let the People Decide

How Shall the People of Chicago Secure Better Transportation Service? This is the Big Question Before the Public Today

There is a great deal of talk about the proposed new franchise for the Traction Companies—particularly the length of the franchise necessary to carry out the comprehensive plan recommended by the city's Traction and Subway Commission.

The length of the franchise is a very important question—important in its bearing on various phases of the transportation problem, such, especially, as service.

Service is the all-important feature to the public. The kind of service depends primarily on the facilities for rendering service.

It is common knowledge that both the surface and elevated lines are being operated practically to the limit of their track capacity in the congested territory during rush hours.

Any material improvement in the service must come by increasing facilities. In a word, more track capacity must be provided. The city has been growing, but track capacity in the great central business district has been at a standstill for years.

More track capacity means also more equipment, and both together mean vastly increased expenditures of capital.

The city's Traction and Subway Commission has submitted a plan which provides for an increase of the rapid transit facilities in Chicago 150% in six years at a cost of $90,000,000, and a comprehensive development of transportation facilities at a cost of $275,000,000.

This expenditure will add to the city's present transportation system 58 miles of subway, 157 miles of elevated, and 529 miles of surface lines.

The improvement in service made possible by this vast increase in facilities can be developed for the public if a franchise is granted by the city for a period that will be long enough to make it possible that this enormous amount of money may be raised.

It is absolutely certain that this vast sum cannot be raised and be repaid to the investor out of the proceeds of the nickel in less than fifty years.

New York's wonderful rapid transit system is worked out under a 50-year franchise. Philadelphia has been given the right to grant a franchise under a 50-year term.

It is for the people of Chicago to say to what extent they wish the recommended improvements carried out. The question, in the last analysis, is a financial problem. Under what length of term provided for in the franchise can the necessary millions of dollars be raised?

The Traction and Subway Commission employed by the City of Chicago recommends certain protective features which will practically place the control of the entire traction question—length of franchise and all—in the hands of the people. It will do this—

First,* by providing that the city shall have the right to purchase at any time.

Second,* by providing for general control by the city of service, extensions, capital charges, etc.

Third,* by providing that after conditions satisfactory to the City Council have been incorporated in an ordinance the whole proposition shall be submitted to a vote of the people for approval or rejection.

These conditions cover length of franchise, extent of control over the service by the city and all other features essential to the development of a comprehensive transportation plan.

In this way it is proposed to let the people decide.

This is No. 2 in a series of discussions of the traction question.

COMFORT FOUND AT MARY DAWES HOTEL FOR GIRLS

Northwestern Co-ed and Mother, Almost Penniless, Are Guests.

The city's lonely girls were vanquished by solitude beside a blazing fire and among the gladiolas yesterday at the Mary Dawes hotel. Their $1,500 mechanical orchestra was driving gloom to the farthest corners of the working girls' new $150,000 abode.

Then a woman in deep mourning entered.

"Haven't you an orphan for me?" she asked Miss Frances Cowley, the superintendent. "I am so lonely. I lost my daughter two months ago."

The woman was Mrs. Samuel J. Brown of 2442 North Halsted street.

"My only child, Winifred Irene Brown, is dead," the mother explained. "I'll take a girl for her place, or a middle aged woman, if there are no young girls to appreciate a good home. She mustn't be frivolous. My daughter could do anything."

Mr. Brown had accompanied his wife to the hotel in search of an orphan. He wrote the request on the hotel stationery and led his wife to the door. Among the early arrivals at the hotel, eighteen of whom requested permanent accommodations at from 70 cents to $1.75 a week, were a young woman student in the Northwestern university at Evanston and her mother.

The girl student laid down a quarter and received 3 cents in change, after paying for their lodging for the night. That quarter represented her fortune, she said, and she was unable to pay for a week's room rent until tomorrow.

"My daughter is majoring in German and when she is graduated will teach," said the mother proudly. "But she has to take a job until June. She was working two days in the week to pay for her schooling and couldn't stand the strain. I am going to work out as a housekeeper and stay at the Mary Dawes hotel three nights in the week and put my two boys out to board. We couldn't do this—if there were no such places as this at 10 cents a night."

No Age Limit Fixed.

William B. Taylor, manager of the Dawes hotels, said that no woman would be disqualified for residence there on account of age.

The closing hour at 11 o'clock, the refusal of admission to an intoxicated woman, and the barring of male visitors from the dancing in the dining room are the only rules to be enforced. No entertainment will be furnished, and no religious or club activities are compulsory.

Visitors passing from the peace meeting in the Coliseum stopped at the hotel to dine cheaply. Coffee at 3 cents the cup, bread at 1 cent a slice, and pie at 3 cents were on the menu. Mrs. A. Hecht of Norwood Park, Mrs. C. A. Ogden of 710 Oakley boulevard, and Mrs. O. W. Dean of 727 Oakley boulevard participated.

Mrs. Mary G. Dawes, in whose honor her son, Charles G. Dawes, erected the hotel, has called twice during the opening celebrations at the hotel.

Whitney Beats Henderson.

Rock Island, Ill., Feb. 18.—Frankie Whitney beat Earl Henderson seven out of ten rounds in a no decision bout here today.

J. J. BARBOUR STIRS DRYS TO NEW EFFORTS

State Senator James J. Barbour of the Sixth senatorial district thrilled 500 gathered in the Ravenswood Methodist church with his speech against the "curse of rum." This speech is said to have decided the senate in favor of the referendum bill on last Tuesday by a vote of 31 to 18. Dr. Ernest A. Fetherston introduced Senator Barbour.

"Alcohol causes 25 per cent of the insanity and mental weakness and 10 per cent of the deaths from pneumonia," said Senator Barbour. "It causes 65 per cent of the crimes and 90 per cent of the murders in Chicago."

At the conclusion of the speech a resolution was adopted. In part it follows: "We, citizens of Chicago, assembled in union meeting in the Ravenswood Methodist church, Sunday, Feb. 18, 1917, call upon the members of the house of representatives of our state legislature to follow the lead of the senate in submitting the state-wide referendum prohibition bill now pending before it."

Thirty-five hundred social workers from all parts of the United States will attend.

CHIEF TO RECALL 'SPECIAL' STARS FROM CIVILIANS

"Special privilege" police stars, so closely resembling those of police and other officers as to serve in intimidating subordinate officers and civilians, are to be called in at once by Police Chief Schuettler.

The police chief is listing holders of such stars, issued by former police executives. He announces that he will issue no staff stars to any one.

This action follows a recent exposé in THE TRIBUNE of the enormous number of such "special staff" stars issued by various city and county officials. It is attributed in part to Saturday night's trouble in the Golden Pheasant café, when several persons were injured.

Three men, Arthur Scheying, battery D, I. N. G.; Arthur McCauley, 917 Airdrie place, and Michael A. McCarren, 4019 Washington boulevard, ordered a meal in the restaurant, Madison and Clark streets, and refused to pay for it. In the ensuing argument Scheying displayed a "chief's staff" star, issued by Fire Marshal Thomas O'Connor, and announced his intention of closing the place. A fight followed.

STRIKERS MAY DEFY COURTS, IGNORE ORDER

Picket Injunction Classed with Laws Which Were Cause of '76 Revolt.

Severe criticism of the action of Judges Baldwin and Smith last Saturday night in issuing injunctions against striking members of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' union was made at yesterday's meeting of the Chicago Federation of Labor.

Speakers declared the document to be illegal, arbitrary, and "a survival of the orders issued by kings with unlimited power 300 years ago." The terms of the writs, they said, not only are calculated to aid the manufacturers in "beating the strike," but also deprive the strikers of their citizenship rights.

"These injunctions enjoin the legal citizenship rights of every man, woman, and child in this community," said John Fitzpatrick, president of the federation. "Judges Baldwin and Smith know that congress has prevented the federal courts from being used as their courts are."

Deaf, Dumb, Blind.

"There is only one way to observe the terms of the injunctions," said Edward N. Nockels, the federation's secretary, "and that is to be deaf, dumb and paralyzed."

"The issuing of such writs as these forms a part of a drastic system that capital is trying to build up to separate organized labor in a class by itself, with no constitutional rights," said Victor Olander, secretary of the Illinois Federation of Labor. "These judges are using an arbitrary power that our forefathers stopped by the shedding of blood. They must be stopped."

The federation unanimously indorsed the strike and agreed to support it.

Court's Order Posted.

Three foot posters containing the salient facts embodied in the injunctions were posted throughout the downtown women's garment manufacturing districts late last night. This was done by workmen in the employ of the manufacturers.

Attorney Leo F. Wormser, counsel for a number of the manufacturers, made the following statement in reply to the assertions of labor leaders:

"The statement of Clarence Darrow, counsel for the union, and the speeches of labor leaders that the injunction issued by Judge Smith is illegal absolutely disregards repeated decisions of the Supreme court of Illinois. In 1908 that court, sustaining the injunction issued during the strike of the typographical union, said:

"'It is contended that a peaceful picket line around a shop is entirely lawful, but this court holds otherwise. The law protects the buyer, the seller, the merchant, the manufacturer, and the laborer in the right to walk the streets unmolested. Any picket line must result in annoyance both to the employer and the workmen, no matter what is said or done.'

"'Peaceful picketing, in fact, never exists during strikes.'"

White Rats Near Strike.

The White Rats, an organization of vaudeville actors affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, will go on strike in Chicago "as soon as they can get around to it," it was stated by Secretary Nockels.

Street Car Hits Auto; Man, Woman, Child Hurt

Three persons were injured yesterday when an automobile in which they were riding was struck by a street car at Paulina and Congress streets. One of them, Christiana Marka, 4 years old, is in the Presbyterian hospital with a possible fracture of the skull. Mrs. Mary Marka, her mother, 1059 West Congress street, was cut and bruised, and John Koavans, 2718 Jefferson street, also was injured.

KILLS EX-WIFE, A WITNESS IN M'DANIEL CASE

St. Joseph, Mo., Feb. 18.—Mrs. Dagmar Krucker was shot and killed here this afternoon by her divorced husband, John C. E. Krucker, who then shot himself through the head. Krucker has only a slight chance to recover, according to physicians.

The shooting took place at the home of Mrs. Krucker's father, and the couple's 6 year old daughter lay ill on a bed and watched the tragedy.

Mrs. Krucker was called as a witness in the trial last November of Oscar D. McDaniel, county prosecutor, who was cleared by a jury of a charge of wife murder.

Mrs. Krucker, however, was not put upon the stand, although her name was brought into the trial through other witnesses. McDaniel had acted as Krucker's attorney in the proceedings by which he and Mrs. Krucker were divorced.

McDaniel tonight told newspaper men that Krucker several days ago told him he intended asking Mrs. Krucker to remarry him.

Milwaukee Chief Nails Story Rapping Our Police

Chief of Police Herman F. Schuettler announced last night that he had received a letter from Chief of Police J. T. Janssen of Milwaukee in which the latter denied that he had made a statement that "an honest man could not be a member of the Chicago police force for longer than three or four months." The statement was credited to the Milwaukee chief while introducing a bill in the legislature in Madison to have private detective agencies licensed and regulated.

Using excellent judgment of pace and biding his time to weave through the field, Sigurd ("Brick") Larsen of the Norwegian Turners, runnerup in THE TRIBUNE Silver Skates derby, yesterday won the feature event, the class A one mile race, of the first annual skating derby of Illinois Sportsmen club held on the Douglas park lagoon. Skaters of the Northwest Skating club, however, carried off premier team honors with a total of eleven points. The Norwegian Turners had nine points and Milwaukee A. Robert M. Reed of Riverside, representing the U. S. Ball Bearing A. A., went into the lead at the start of the race. Larsen, in second position, allowed Reed to set the pace for five of the six circuits, with the rest of the field strung out. When the gun was fired denoting the last lap, Larsen jumped his opponent on the first turn and the result never was in doubt thereafter.

On the back stretch Roy McWhirter of the Northwest Skating club cut loose, circled the field, and crossed the finish line a good second. Carl Fisher of Milwaukee also let out a notch and was scarcely a yard behind McWhirter. Reed finished in the ruck. The time for the mile 3:29, was considered exceptionally good, considering the condition of the ice.

Quick Speeds to Victory.

Racers in the class B one mile event were N. B. Quick of the Northwest Skating club, with Richard Johnson of the same organization second. Joe Kott of the Orell A. A. was a close third. It was an evenly skated race for most of the journey and scarcely five yards separated the first three finishers.

In the one mile class C, Edward A. Grieb was an easy winner. He led from start to finish and never was in danger.

Palm Beach, Fla., Feb. 18.—For the second consecutive year Miss Elaine Rosenthal of Chicago won the women's state golf championship of Florida. She defeated Mrs. C. A. Bragg 3 and 2 in the final match. Miss Rosenthal won the western title in 1915 at the Midlothian Country club of Chicago and was runner-up for the national title the same year. She is a member of the Ravisloe Golf club.

Charley Zeller Seeks to Be City Treasurer

"Charles J. Zeller"—that's the way it appears on his campaign card, but it's the same Charley who for years has officiated at athletic meets and as timekeeper at wrestling and boxing contests. Now Charley wants to officiate as city treasurer and he will be Republican candidate at the primaries on Feb. 27. "And the best shall be first," says Zeller in calling the attention of voters to the fact that his name appears last on the ballot.

Olga Dorfner Equals World Swimming Mark

Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 18.—Miss Olga Dorfner of this city, national title holder for the fifty yard and 100 yard swimming championships, equaled the world's record of :29 for the fifty yard dash in the championship swimming meet of the middle Atlantic division of the Amateur Athletic union, last night. Fannie Durack of Australia, unofficially established the record in 1914.

CUBS, NOT ROBINS, HAILED BY FANS SIGN OF SPRING

BY JAMES CRUSINBERRY.

Although no robins may be seen in Lincoln park today, spring is supposed to arrive and winter is slated to depart, because it is assembly day for Chicago's Cubs, who will depart for the California training camp tomorrow night. A few of the more enthusiastic players arrived yesterday, but it is expected that about twenty will be on hand today. All have been ordered to report except those who live in the far west.

Manager Mitchell, who arrived on Friday, will be at the north side park to meet the players at 10 o'clock this morning and will stage the first "lecture" of the season. It is his intention to have numerous meetings of players when all points of baseball are to be discussed. Mitch has arranged one of his most impressive speeches to deliver to the boys on the first occasion.

Archer in Confab Today.

Several players who haven't yet signed their contracts will have private talks with President Weeghman, and with possibly one or two exceptions all north siders on the reserve list are expected to be lined up before the train departs. Weeghman has stated that no one who hasn't signed a contract will be taken.

One player who has turned down the offer of the Cub boss is Jimmy Archer. He is scheduled for a talk this morning with Manager Mitchell, after which he may talk with Weeghman. Archer was given a big cut in salary.

Vaughn Ready to Sign.

Another Cub star who has caused some concern to the boss is Big Jim Vaughn, who has wintered down in Honey Grove, Tex. From that place came a report that he would not leave unless his contract called for more money. Jim was offered the same pay which he drew last year. Yesterday a wire came from Vaughn that he would board the train at Kansas City Wednesday morning. He indicated that he expected to come to terms after a talk with the boss and sign his contract on the train.

Vic Saier, first baseman, arrived yesterday and will be one to have a talk with the president today regarding the figures of his contract. Vic expects to be on the train and have a satisfactory contract.

Mann's Mother Dies.

A sad incident occurred to mar the pleasure of the journey when a telegram came to President Weeghman saying that Leslie Mann's mother had died at her home in Los Angeles. Weeghman wired to Springfield, Mass., where Leslie lives, but learned Leslie had left there for Chicago Saturday.

Bender's Car Kills Man; Police Silent on Case

Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 18.—[Special.]—Strict silence was imposed today upon every policeman who might know anything of the killing of James Curran, 1501 Fairmount avenue, by an automobile alleged to have been driven by Chief Bender, former star pitcher of the Athletics.

Curran was struck by a car late Saturday night in front of the Metropolitan Opera house. Although the police had the number of the car which caused Curran's death no attempt has been made to question the owner, and every question bearing upon the case was answered with silence.

Bender, who has been missing all day, will surrender to the police tomorrow, it is said.

Local Hockey Players Beat Racine by 4 to 3

When Bill Whiting drove the ball almost the entire length of the floor and into the waiting cage he ended the most thrilling game of roller hockey ever seen in a Chicago rink and incidentally gave the Harmon-Cooper All-Star combination a 4 to 3 victory in the final game of the series with Racine. Two extra periods were necessary to decide the match played at Riverview rink.

Exhaust Echoes

A MEETING of Chicago women who drive their own cars will be held today at the Chicago Automobile club to form a permanent organization designed to be of service to the United States should we find ourselves at war with anybody. The call was issued by Mrs. John B. Sardy of Oak Park, a member of a "women drivers' special service detachment" organized last month by W. G. Tennant, secretary of the Chicago Automobile Trade association. Mrs. Frederick D. Countiss, commander last summer of the "rookie" camp at Lake Geneva, is actively interested and has arranged with a British army officer to be present and tell of the work of women in the armies of the allies. Arrangements also will be made for holding drills and receiving instruction in nursing and other matters of importance.

Franklin K. Lane, secretary of the interior, has enlisted himself as an active crusader in the fight to lower the soaring price of gasoline. Mr. Lane wants to make available a vast quantity of oil supplies now locked up by government withdrawals of public lands and to be released only if congress passes a general land leasing bill. In a recent letter to Senator Myers, chairman of the public lands committee, Secretary Lane wrote: "We have some 6,000,000 acres of possible oil lands so withdrawn that no wells can be bored upon them. Only the lands now held in private ownership are producing. We should be about the business of discovering what these withdrawn lands contain. Gasoline is invaluable to the army and the navy, as well as to every automobile owner."

Well, more power to the secretary!

The number of new cars being driven to Chicago from the factories every week to circumvent the shortage of freight cars is now well past the thousand mark. The Oakland agency alone brought 202 cars into the city in this way last week. From ten to thirty Buicks are coming overland daily. Forty Cadillacs were started from Detroit Saturday. The Dodge Brothers agency has had a crew of twenty men on the road for nearly two months. The "factory drives" from the manufacturing centers in Michigan and other near by states have been organized on regular schedules in many cases, and hundreds of employés are devoting themselves to this work and nothing else.

At a luncheon to newspaper men, held Saturday at the University club, C. W. Nash, president of the Nash Motors company of Kenosha, expressed the belief that the freight tieup is due not so much to a shortage of cars as of motive power. Said he: "The head of a big locomotive building concern I happen to know told the officials of a great railroad system some time ago that they needed more engines. They laughed at him, but he went back to his factory and started work on seventy-five locomotives on his own initiative. Before they were finished in came an order for 150 from that same railroad. We have had a year of general prosperity such as few people have comprehended, and the railroads are just beginning to realize that they wern't prepared to handle their part of the business."

SEMI-PROS PLAN FOR NEW LEAGUE

A pretentious semi-pro baseball league will be in operation in Chicago this season, according to plans formulated at a meeting of independent park owners and managers yesterday. The organization will have plants, franchises, and players which the promoters value at $150,000.

Bill Nelsen, manager of the Garden City club, acted as temporary chairman. J. J. Callahan and Manager Mike Heckinger of Logan Square, James Sime of Joliet, Manager Warren Hill of South Chicago, Manager Bert Fairchild of the new West Side club at Forty-eighth and Armitage, Manager Jimmy Hutton of the Gunthers, and Jimmy Keown were present.

The new circuit will be composed of six park teams and six traveling teams. Applications for vacancies will be considered at a meeting next Sunday.

ST. ANTHONY, 3; ST. BRENDAN, 0.

OPEN FACE TOGS FOR BIKE GRIND, HARMON'S DREAM

BY KEENE GARDINER.

All those bicycle fans who wish to attend the next six day race must present themselves at the door wearing full dress suits and must have at least $1 in their pockets, or they may find themselves among the undesirables.

This was about the way Paddy Harmon stated the facts last night after recovering from the nervous strain of promoting the grind which ended Saturday night. In the future the six day race is to be a "society affair."

"You can say for me," Harmon said, "that if I undertake to stage another it is to be a swell society event. That is practically arranged now, and one of the biggest men in Chicago society is back of me. He was at the show several times with a crowd of his friends, and Friday night asked for a private box for the final night. I had a long talk with him, and he has promised to back the thing next season, not only guaranteeing all expenses but assuring me $20,000 for the show.

Carpet and Palms!

"The idea is to make some changes in the building so that the track can run close to the society boxes. Right along the track in front of the boxes will be a promenade eight feet wide. A bridge will be built from the boxes to the middle of the circle, which is to be covered with carpet and decorated with palms.

"You see, we have been running the race with a 50 cent admission on all days except the final. Then when we raise the price for the final night it naturally keeps away most of those who come during the week. One can't run a show and cater to two elements, and from now on I'm strong for the society folks. None of those guys who haven't on a white front will be admitted.

"I haven't figured up yet to see just how we came out financially on the race, but I know we did better than a year ago. But just wait until the next one comes off."

Big Race for Coast.

Application for traveling space on the Cub special was made yesterday by the management of the six day bike riders who are going to San Francisco to stage a six day event. There will be twenty-eight riders and their manager in the party.

Bill Pickens, who is putting on the show in 'Frisco, backed by Barney Oldfield, thought the boys would like to ride out with the ball players. President Weeghman promised to take the matter up with the railway officials today, but feared it would make the party so large that one engine couldn't pull it. It would require an additional Pullman car and another dining car to the train, and the bike riders have about enough baggage with the wheels to fill a baggage car of their own.

Verbal Lacing by Darcy to Timothy O'Sullivan

New York, Feb. 18.—[Special.]—Les Darcy comes right back at Mr. E. Timothy O'Sullivan, his discarded manager, in a round robin letter. In this torrid missive to the press Darcy repudiates all that E. Timothy has said about ungratefulness, trickery, broken promises, contracts, written and verbal, contracts whole and contracts at the bottom of the ocean! In short, Leslie tilts Baron Munchausen off his skinny old nag and slams E. Timothy O'Sullivan right smack into the baron's empty saddle.

Jesse Young, Trapshooter of Local Clubs, Is Dead

Trapshooters in Chicago and vicinity will learn with regret of the death of Jesse F. Young, one of the best amateur shots in the country. In 1908-'09-'10 Mr. Young held the amateur championship of Illinois. He was runner-up in several big tournaments, including the Grand American. He was a member of the Chicago Gun club. Death was preceded by a nervous breakdown. Funeral sevices will be held tomorrow at his late residence, 5822 West Ohio street, at 2:30 o'clock.

PURPLE ATHLETES GET HARD BLOW; STARS INELIGIBLE

BY EVAN STONE.

Deans at Northwestern university went through the various athletic teams with a fine tooth comb last week. Following the February examinations, captains of three teams were declared ineligible and Carney, the best hurdler in the institution, probably will have to leave college because of flunks. The others received conditions.

The captains affected are Underhill of the basketball team, Olson of the wrestling squad, and Johnson of the swimmers. These leaders will be unable to compete unless they remove their conditions by special examinations.

Track Team Jolted Hardest.

The track team was the hardest hit. Aside from Carney, Heise, weight man; Smart, sprinter; McCarthy, pole vault; Sweet, quarter miler; Bomberger, sprinter; Burch, pole vault; Brumbach, low hurdler, and Brightmire of football fame, who is also a good dash man, were placed under the ban. Director Omer relied on Smart, Brightmire, Heise, and McCarthy to build his outdoor track and field team.

Underhill, also of football fame, is best known as a basket tosser. Lormor, substitute, is the other member of the squad affected.

Baseball Men Out.

Kohler, former Wendell Phillips High school athlete, who played full back on last year's eleven and was picked to play first base; Aires, a promising catcher, and Lynch, outfielder, are the players lost to Coach McGill.

The loss of these athletes undoubtedly will put the Purple out of the running for the championship to be decided before the regular collegiate season closes. The indoor conference meet is scheduled to take place in Patten gymnasium next month. At the same time the conference swimming meet will be held. The wrestling championships also are carded for next month.

Basketball Team Wants Games.

In the Wake of the News
by RING W. LARDNER

MINE.

Though Bill can say a lot of words—
I know of eight or nine—
His conversation nowadays
Seems limited to "mine."

It covers almost everything—
The meals, the books, the chairs;
The toys that John and Brother Jim
Had learned to believe were theirs.

And when Bill points and murmurs "Mine,"
No matter what it is,
We find it wisest silently
To grant the thing is his.

BUCK DENIES CHARGES MADE BY SCHOOL LEAGUE

Alderman Declares He Is Not Playing In with the Labor Vote.

The public school issue flared forth in all sections of the city yesterday following the publication of the appeal to the voters by the Public School league to scotch the "Haley-Buck" bill pending in the legislature and designed to further the interests of the Chicago Teachers' federation, according to the charges.

Ald. Buck, whose activities in behalf of the bill with the backing of the Chicago Federation of Labor brought forth the league's specific charge that he was playing in with the labor vote in standing for the elective school board, last night issued a formal statement. He denied the general charges leveled at him by the league and reiterated his championship of the elective scheme.

Boynton Defends Merriam.

At the same time Dr. Melville P. Boynton, in the Woodlawn Baptist church last night, devoted his sermon to a defense of Ald. Charles E. Merriam, whose alliance with Buck on the school issue has precipitated a bitter fight on him in the Seventh ward by backers of William R. Fetzer.

Dr. Boynton declared Merriam to be "the glory of Chicago's city council," and appealed to the members of his church to support him in the primary because of his general record in the council, and to overlook specific issues on which some of the people are honestly divided.

Dr. Boynton said that the forces opposing him consist of the "political," the "deceived citizen," the "employed force of the opposition," the "uncovered and discovered rascal," and the "indifferent citizen."

Dr. Boynton is one of the executive officers of the Anti-Saloon league and the league has decided to indorse Mr. Merriam, although no special fight will be made for him, as the league folks are centering their efforts on the legislature.

Buck Denies Charges.

Ald. Buck in his statement denied that his bill is a "Haley-Buck" bill, and insisted that it is now supported by leading educators. He denied that the meetings at which the report to the council was framed were secret.

The question of veracity was raised on this point by anti-Buck leaders. They insisted that one of the meetings was held at the City club, attended by both Buck and Merriam, and that the newspaper men were excluded from the meeting and refused information at its close.

"Since the adoption by the city council," reads the Buck statement, "the school reorganization plan has been indorsed by the Illinois Federation of Women's clubs, the Illinois Women's Legislative congress, the Women's City club, the Chicago Woman's club, the Seventh District Federation of Women's Clubs, and numerous mothers' clubs and parent-teachers' associations."

Buck's home ward, the Thirty-third, is to be the storm center of the school issue battle the closing week of the primary campaign. Supporters of the aldermen and champions of the school league propaganda will be sent into the ward to take the stump in what promises to be one of the liveliest tilts the ward has known in years.

Whoopin' Things Up.

The Buck partisans will stage a big meeting tonight in Logan Square auditorium, Kedzie boulevard and Logan square. Miss Harriet Vittum, and Victor Olander, secretary of the Illinois Federation of Labor and spokesman for the Lake Seamen's union, will be the principal speakers. Others on the program are Max Loeb, member of the school board and supporter of the Chicago Federation of Labor plan, Ald. Oliver Watson of the Twenty-seventh ward, John Northup and Ald. Buck.

Tomorrow afternoon the anti-federationists will counter with their first big meeting in the ward at the Plaisance theater, 446 North Parkside avenue. Dr. Rufus A. White, former member of the school board and lecturer, will be the principal speaker.

The Socialists, who also are supporting the elective school board plan, plan a whirlwind finish to the campaign in the Fifteenth ward in behalf of J. Louis Engdahl. The party leaders think they have a chance of sending another Socialist to the council from this ward to sit with Ald. Rodriguez. Copies of the American Socialist, a special edition of which was printed for Fifteenth ward purposes, was sent to every voter in the ward yesterday.

Anti-city hall forces are getting busy in the Thirty-fourth ward. At a meeting in Weuthrich's hall resolutions were adopted indorsing Otto L. Kolar for alderman in opposition to Ald. Joseph Wahs, the city hall candidate.

Mixing the Igoes.

Representative Michael L. Igoe yesterday announced that he is not the Igoe running for the nomination for city clerk. James T. Igoe, the candidate of the regular Sullivan forces, will open his speaking campaign tonight in Conners hall, Lake street and Western avenue.

Only three ballots will be presented to the voters at the primary election on Feb. 27. Sample ballots will be ready next Thursday, according to an announcement posted in the board of election commissioners yesterday, and the official colors will be:

Democratic—Rose color.
Republican—Green.
Socialist—Salmon.

Last year at the aldermanic primaries the number was swelled by the Progressive ballot, but this party, as far as city elections are concerned, is now officially dead. At the last purely municipal election the Progressive party polled only 4,637 votes, while 2 per cent of the vote cast, or 9,327 votes, was necessary to keep the party alive.

JULIA AND DONALD AND JOE AT THE ILLINOIS

BY PERCY HAMMOND.

THE minutes of last evening's exercises at the Illinois will begin with a record of the fact that Julia and Donald and Joe, cutting the customary capers in the customary way, participated engagingly in certain stately revels entitled "Sybil."

Julia, as usual, performed superior feats with the alluring pettifrock; Donald danced haughtily and moaned the melting love songs of the score, and Joseph, equipped with many a nifty jest, sauntered affably through the episodes, as funny as ever. The music, by Victor Jacobi, was lovely in an operetta way, and the book was so adult a composition that you looked twice at your play bill to see if Harry B. Smith really had anything to do with it.

The only variation from the Sanderson-Brian-Cawthorn routine was that at the end Miss Sanderson and Mr. Brian were not employed in soulful contemplation of immediate nuptials. This time Miss Sanderson loved another, Mr. Steward Baird, an ornamental vocalist; and Mr. Brian, contrary to the ordinances, cared for his wife, Miss Rene Detling, who, by the many splendors of her appearance, gave him every reason so to do. Mr. Brian was an imperial Muscovite grand duke, Boris, I presume, by name, and Miss Sanderson was a concert singer, entitled Olga, perhaps, and booked for one night only in Bromsk, Russia, the scene of the play. Mr. Cawthorn was Spreckles, an impresario.

Mr. Brian, as decorative and as sentimental as a valentine, his breast gleaming with orders, and swathed in patent leather and broadcloth, enters the drama tardily. He is just in time to discover Miss Sanderson, the diva, impersonating his grand duchess so that she may save from Siberian exile the amorous and tenor leftenant, who has deserted his regiment for love of her. Mr. Brian is elegantly regal in an American way, and if you listen closely to his careful diction you may hear him say "diddy-you" with all the elocutionary circumspection of a debutante. He wears funny clothing with ease; he is trig, though virile, deporting himself manfully under musical comedy handicaps, and he flits about in several dances as airily as of yore. He deserves his position as an institution in the American theater.

So, too, does Miss Sanderson. After you have seen her as many times as I have you will forgive the egregious coo with which she glums up her impersonations, because she is so good to look upon. I suppose that nobody, except the stereotyped old German-American of the theater, is as sweet as Miss Sanderson. Certainly no one else can dance with such seductive austerity. She is the Maude Adams of the ankle, the dimpled kneecap, and the underskirt, though she blends the wanton with the cloistral in bewitching combination. I think she has never done anything so well as she does the little song in the first act—that one wherein she writes a love letter to her soldier sweetheart.

Mr. Cawthorn's important moment occurs when he walks down to the footlights and blandly gives utterance to a comic lamentation that he can Dance with Everybody but His Wife. The verses of this lyric confession are as many as you choose to make them by your applause; and they contain much minor philosophy, which, strange to say, rhymes occasionally and, scans, if you are not too fastidious. The playbill says that Harry Graham had a hand in the book, and if it is the Capt. Harry Graham who was once engaged to marry Miss Ethel Barrymore, its smartness is explained.

Mr. Cawthorn is expert in one joke particularly. Regarding with comic fury the flirtation of his wife with a senile Russian general, he says: "There is the man who wrecked my domestic happiness—such as it was." Mr. Brian, who is obliging in "Sybil," asking the questions for which Mr. Cawthorn has the funny answers, inquires what position Mr. Cawthorn adorned in football. "I was a drawback," answers Mr. Cawthorn, and the ensuing laughter is uproarious.

Thus, you may see that "Sybil" is pleasant and polite. The chorus is well and thoroughly dressed; it sings audibly and in tune, and the whole affair is real musical comedy entertainment.

DELBRIDGE GIRL TODAY FACES JUDGE BOWLES

Battle plans and conferences over the warfare to be waged in the Marjorie Delbridge case occupied yesterday the attorneys on both sides, and today the 14 year old girl whose custody is being sought by both Mrs. Camilla Jackson and the Juvenile court officials will again appear before Judge Bowles for a new disposition of her future.

Assistant State's Attorney Hogan said he would meet Mr. Hoyne today and get a line on the prosecutor's idea of procedure. Mr. Hoyne already has said it is up to Judge Bowles to proceed with whatever punishment he deems proper against those who spirited Marjorie out of the city, but it is said his office may take some steps toward penalizing the offenders.

The Negro attorneys representing Mrs. Jackson are expected to appear before Judge Kickham Scanlan, chief justice of the Circuit court, and to demand a reassignment of the whole matter. They say Judge Bowles was not properly assigned to try the case. Marjorie spent the day in the care of the Juvenile court.

BRIDE IN CELL, 'TOO AMUSED' AT BIGAMY CHARGE

Mrs. Berthelson Refuses to Worry at Contractor's Complaint.

Edith Harkey - Bernsdorff - (Clampit)-Berthelson, lyric soprano, aged 25 and possessed of beauty, is not worrying over a bigamy charge. She doesn't even care a little bit about it.

She said so last night in her cell at the South Clark street police station, where she is held on her husband's complaint. Her husband is C. F. Berthelson, contractor-financier of Clear Lake, Ia., who alleges she left him a month ago with one too many husbands and $5,000 of his cash.

She was arrested in Detroit and returned to Chicago to face trial. It is alleged that she was married to William Bernsdorff in Indianapolis five years ago, that while she still was his wife she married Charles Clampit, and that last August she became the wife of the Iowa contractor, Clampit acting as best man. Her first husband was killed in an auto accident, she says.

"It's Too Amusing."

"It's too amusing for me to worry," she said. "There are plenty of jaz bands for me when I get through with jail.

"I'm not the wife of any man except Berthelson, and I wish that I was not his. I was married once before—to William Bernsdorff of Cincinnati, but he was killed in an auto accident. Then I sang on the stage and met Charles Clampit. We were to be married but didn't because his former wife had her divorce set aside on the day we got our marriage license.

"After that I met my present husband. My husband introduced Mr. Clampit at Clear Lake as my stepbrother.

Denies $5,000 Theft.

"I never took $5,000 from my husband as he charges I did. He admits this himself.

"My husband was insanely jealous and stingy. He gave me $5 weekly for the house. You couldn't get a dollar out of him with a crowbar."

The husband declares that he met his wife through a want ad in a matrimonial paper. It read, he says: "I'm pretty, plump, loving, and want to be an old man's darling. But I'm expensive."

"The real causes for her leaving were the bright lights and love for jaz bands," the husband claims.

PIECE OF $500 BILL INVOLVES HIM IN ROBBERY

Accused by a bit of green paper which formed part of a $500 bill, Louis Hubschman, a Chicago pawnbroker, is awaiting trial in Woodstock, Ill. The bit of bank note was the only evidence against the perpetrator of the robbery on Oct. 21 of the bank of Ringwood, Ill.

When the bank safe was blown open R. L. Crampton, secretary of the Illinois State Bankers' association, hurried to Ringwood. He examined the bank, and in the debris of the explosion he found a triangular bit of bank note paper. Along the lower edge were the characters, "undred." Thus he knew the bill to be more than $100 in denomination.

The cashier of the bank told him the only large bill on deposit was one for $500. Mr. Crampton hurried to Chicago and asked if a torn $500 bill had been presented for redemption. He was told such a bill had been received but a short time before. The bank official found it had been the property of Hubschman.

Hubschman said it had been given him by a man who bought a diamond for $225. Despite this he was arrested and indicted. He is at large under bonds of $3,500.

Jailer Davies Mentioned for Warden at Joliet

Mention of the name of Jailer Davies of the Cook county jail for the post of warden of the Joliet penitentiary was brought to the attention of Gov. Lowden yesterday.

"Consideration of candidates for warden of Joliet will be postponed until after the senate has acted on the consolidation bill," said the governor. "Mr. Davies' name has been suggested to me, as have other names. When the bill for consolidation is passed I will begin to take up the appointment of heads of departments and also the appointment of wardens with the head of the department having control of prisons."

Boy Scouts Honor Memory of Their Dead Comrade

Troops 334 and 335 of the Boys Scouts marched over yesterday to the house of their dead comrade, Earl Albert, the 14 year old boy who shot himself on Saturday when his mother refused to grant him permission to attend a scouts' meeting. Attired in their uniforms, they lined up around the casket and saluted. The funeral will take place today at 2 p. m. from the Metropolitan Church of Christ, 2207 Van Buren street. The Rev. J. H. Smith will preach the funeral sermon. The two troops of Earl's comrades will drive with other mourners to Oak Ridge cemetery. When the coffin is lowered into the grave, the company bugler will sound taps.

Honest but Improvident, Policeman Wins Applause

If Policeman Thomas A. Ferriter is in the house will he please rise?

There he is, ladies and gentlemen, traveling out of the Clark street station, and he is the first honest policeman that B. F. Schwartz, keeper of a lodging house at 807 South State street, has seen in twenty-two years.

"He picked up John Nash," said Mr. Schwartz. "Nash had been drinking barrel house booze until he was seeing blue guinea hens. Ht was sleeping on the sidewalk. The policeman brought him in, put him to bed, and searched him. He found $129 in his pockets. And he didn't take it."

YOUNG DICK, OF YALE 'RUNAWAY' FAME, IS HOME

Student Who 'Pioneered' with Paul Martin to Work for Father.

Matthew Dick is home again, and the family chef nearly killed his fatted calves yesterday in providing the young man with good things to eat.

Interest attaches to the event, first, because young Mr. Dick brought a 42 centimeter appetite back with him from the Canadian wilds; secondly, because he is the son of A. B. Dick, millionaire manufacturer of Chicago, and, lastly, because he is the young man who last November "cut" Yale university with Paul Martin and started out "on his own."

With the return of the young man there ends a noteworthy chapter in the American history of the "Society of Little Sons of the Rich." Dick and Paul Martin, the latter a son of W. P. Martin of Lake Forest, resigned from Yale on Nov. 4. Neither had a mark against him.

Letter Is First Shock.

Soon after their disappearance there came a letter from both to their parents.

"We don't want to be pampered pets," they wrote. "We want to make our own way in the world."

So without more ado the young men disappeared. Herman E. Dick, uncle of one of the boys, hurried from Chicago to New York and started search, advertised for them and offered them business openings.

In the meantime the boys were burrowing deeper and deeper into the Canadian wilds, and on Nov. 20 were discovered in a lumber camp north of Prince Albert, Saskatchewan. Novices in the hard bitted toil of the "lumberjacks," each was undergoing a grueling hardening process.

Fathers Are Pleased.

With this information Father Dick and Father Martin said "Ahem, yes, yes," ponderously before their families—and met in secret and jubilated over the red blooded urge that sent their boys into the far places.

"Guess they're the kind we need in our businesses," suggested Father Martin tentatively.

"No guess about it—they are," rejoined Father Dick.

Thereupon the two dads sat down to await the return of their offspring. Young Martin ate Christmas dinner with his parents at the family residence, 1310 Astor street.

"No more college for me," said Martin junior. "I'm going to work."

"Yes—for me," said his father.

Dick "Draws His Time."

The young men had parted company in the northwest, but when Dick found Martin had returned to the flesh pots he "drew his time"—imagine a millionaire's son doing that instead of resigning—and headed for Chicago.

"The greatest experience in the world," the young man said. "It was done to convince myself first—and dad afterward—that I could make good for myself. Now I'm back and no more college for me; I'm going to work."

"Yes," said Father Dick—"for me."

The A. B. Dick company, 736 West Jackson street, will be Matthew Dick's future business address.

Mrs. Chalmers to Deny Mrs. Blakeny's Charges

Mrs. Sara Ann Chalmers, who was sued for $25,000 for alienation of the affections of Sanford I. Blakeny of Chicago, the suit being entered in Cincinnati, is to make a sweeping denial today, according to news from Cincinnati.

The suit was brought by Lelia N. Bayliss of Ludlow, Ky., formerly Mrs. Blakeny. It was Mrs. Blakeny who, returning to her home, 4639 Prairie avenue, in 1915, found a woman's watch and a hair net that didn't belong to her. She had been away on a visit. She sued for divorce. Later she sued Mrs. Chalmers, said to be a former Detroit society woman.

Mrs. Chalmers has denied any participation in Blakeny's anairs, and will ask the suit be dismissed peremptorily.

The Rev. W. M. Tippy Gives Up $4,000 for New Charge

The Rev. Worth M. Tippy, pastor of the Madison Avenue Methodist Episcopal church, New York, said to be the highest paid pastor in his denomination, has resigned to take charge of the social service department of the federal council of the Churches of Christ in America, representing thirty denominations and 18,000,000 communicants. The change means a loss of $4,000 a year in salary.

Youth Mysteriously Shot Tells of Two Assassins

The Desplaines street police are investigating the shooting of Thomas Kelly, a machinist, 2806 West Lake street, taken to the Bridewell hospital yesterday suffering from a bullet wound in the side. Kelly says he and about a dozen other young men were coming from a party at 1042 Jackson boulevard. In front of 1038 Van Buren street two men, apparently Italians, leaped from a doorway and opened fire on the crowd.

Hoyne Contradicts Yarn of a Parker Confession

State's Attorney Hoyne last night denied that Frank Parker, extradited from Minneapolis in connection with the wholesale automobile thefts, had made a confession to him, as reported in a morning newspaper.

WHEN A FELLER NEEDS A FRIEND

PITTE BANK RUN BY MEMORY; MAY PAY 50 PER CENT

Friend Admits Missing Financier's 'Books' Are Faulty.

Depositors of the basement bank of Robert L. Pitte, 901 West Twentieth street, unincorporated and now in the hands of a receiver, may be paid 50 per cent of their money in the liquidation of the resources of the institution.

This statement was made yesterday by Dr. Carl Kalbfleisch, friend of the missing banker and one of the last to see him before he dropped out of sight on Thursday. Dr. Kalbfleisch says he does not know Pitte's whereabouts, nor can he explain the disappearance.

"A hasty inventory of Mr. Pitte's property, with that turned over by his son Hugo, indicates that the depositors will get about 50 cents on the dollar," said Dr. Kalbfleisch. "He had eighteen pieces of real estate, while Hugo has tendered nine lots in Gary and some personal property."

No Official Records.

Records of the bank consist of memoranda.

"He depended on his memory in handling the bank's affairs," said Dr. Kalbfleisch.

"So secretive was he that Harry Nowak, whose mother had $1,100 deposited there, knew nothing of the impending crash, although he was a clerk in the bank. He held money belonging to his niece, Olga Vrana, of which there is no record."

An instance of the inaccuracy of the records is shown by a memorandum containing a credit of $3,500 for a woman depositor, yet she says the bank owes her only $1,000. Many fire insurance policies were written on which the premiums were not collected, and he paid the interest on mortgages and was not reimbursed.

$20,000 Deal Under Scrutiny.

One transaction under scrutiny is the purchase of a piece of property on West Twelfth street which represents an outlay of $20,000. It is estimated to be worth $6,000.

Hundreds of dollars of back rents are due.

"Mr. Pitte was accompanied to an elevated station by his son and myself Thursday," said Dr. Kahbfleish. "He intended boarding a train to go to the home of his niece, Mrs. Frank Ine, in Oak Park. He had about $3 in his pockets. That is the last seen of him, and no one knows what has become of him."

Open Gas Jets Kill One and Overcome Four More

One man was killed by gas and four other persons were overcome or made ill by it yesterday in the home of Daniel Spry at 136 South Halsted street. Leon Body was found dead in bed. One gas jet in his room was open, and the fumes filled the whole flat, overcoming Michael Wasell, Spry and his wife, and Mrs. Louise Miller, a roomer.

SPUDS

Potato Comes to Its Own at Last. Even the Armchairoriums Are Forced to Recognize It as Vegetable with Personality.

HOW hath the lowly risen!

The somber, sad eyed spud—the mild, mellifluous murphy—the poor, proletariat potato—has catapulted into the élite of edibles. Patrons of a Cottage Grove armchairorium permitted large, sincere tears to spatter over the bills of fare when they saw the notice freshly inscribed on each and every bill:

"On and after tomorrow (Monday, Feb. 19, 1917) potatoes will no longer be served with meat orders. All orders of potatoes will be charged as extra dishes, at 5 cents."

In the cafeterias half of one potato is boiled and served—at 6 cents a half. In a loop resterawr where baked potatoes have been served at 10 cents, the prices has advanced to 15 cents, for which one may purchase a beef stew and a cup of coffee in other loop resteraws.

P. S.—Water is still being served gratis, without charge.

HOBOS REGALED AT $50 FEAST BY MARY GARDEN

Hobos dined sumptuously yesterday on the bounty of Mary Garden. When the opera singer gave her recital at the Hobo college recently she was so impressed with her reception that she left a little gift of $50 with the Rev. Irwin St. John Tucker, with instructions to give the "boa" a spread.

Yesterday the $50 was invested in bread, butter, ham, and bacon. And a good time was had by all.

The Hobo college announces the following events:

Tonight—Address by Arthur Burrage Farwell of the Law and Order league on "The Joy of Service."

Friday night—Debate between the University of Chicago debating society and the Hobo college class in public speaking. Subject: "Birth Control."

Sunday night—Miss Dale Winter of Colosimo's in a song recital.

Milwaukee Doctor Strays to Too Many Churches

Dr. Howard Mendall, a Milwaukee physician, tried to go to church in Evanston last night and was arrested for it.

The doctor had a busy day. In the morning he came to Chicago and witnessed a difficult operation. Then, fatigued, he went to a drug store, wrote a prescription for "spirits of frumenti"—highbrow medicoese for "red liquor."

Then he started for Milwaukee. When he got to Evanston he yearned to attend church. The first point of attack was a Negro Baptist church. A dignded darky elder closed the door gently but firmly.

The next call was the Swedish Lutheran church. He was induced to depart. Two stray policemen happened along and did the rest.

POLICE CHANGE SHIFTS HOYNE MEN IN POSTS

O'Brien Takes Lavin's Place in Hyde Park District.

Chief of Police Herman F. Schuettler yesterday signed a declaration of independence as far as State's Attorney Maclay Hoyne is concerned.

Without a word to the state's attorney and without conferring with the officers conberned, the chief, in a sweeping transfer order which hit five captains, six lieutenants and sixteen sergeants, practically cleared the Hyde Park police district of its commanding officers. This district is the home of Mr. Hoyne, and Capt. Patrick J. Lavin, who was transferred from the district to South Clark street, where he made his reputation years ago, is considered the closest friend Mr. Hoyne has on the police force. Capt. Lavin had been at the Hyde Park station for about seven years.

Lieutenants Transferred.

The three lieutenants who were transferred with Capt. Lavin are: Joseph J. Dubach, from Hyde Park to Morgan Park; Michael T. Morrissey, from Hyde Park to Hegewisch, and John L. Hogan, from Fiftieth street to Desplaines street.

The other captains transferred were: James Madden, from Englewood to Brighton Park; William P. O'Brien, from Brighton Park to Hyde Park; Bernard P. Baer, from Gresham to Irving Park; Joseph C. Mullin, from South Clark street to Englewood.

What may be interpreted as another slap at the state's attorney was contained in the transfer of Capt. O'Brien to Mr. Hoyne's home bailiwick. Mr. Hoyne threatened Capt. O'Brien with indictment not long ago.

Capt. Madden Transfer.

The transfer of Capt. Madden, brother of Congressman Martin B. Madden, was also regarded as significant. The friendship existing between Congressman Madden and Mayor Thompson has given Capt. Madden a reputed strength with the city hall, and under the regime of former Chief Healey he maintained his soft berth at Englewood, despite charges of allowing slot machines to operate in his district. Similar charges against three other police captains brought them before the trial board.

Capt. Madden's transfer is said to have been due to the fact that for weeks the saloon of George Graham at 5514 South State street, under Capt. Madden's jurisdiction, was allowed to violate the Sunday closing and gambling laws. On Saturday Mr. Hoyne charged that even since Mayor Thompson revoked the saloon license drinks have been sold and that gambling is allowed above the saloon.

"I know that there has been gambling in the place in the last week, and I would not be surprised that liquor has been sold, too," said Chief Schuettler. "We were preparing to take action when Mr. Hoyne's charges spoiled our plans."

WOMAN'S ARREST DISCLOSES NEW BLACKMAIL RING

Raid Follows $10,000 Demand on Wealthy Chicago Business Man.

Demand for $10,000 as the price of reputation demanded of a wealthy Chicago business man, has revealed the activities of a new syndicate of Mann act blackmailers now operating in Chicago.

The bureau of investigation of the federal department of justice has the facts in the case and attempts were made yesterday morning to arrest the leaders in the blackmailers' ring. One woman, said to be good looking and stylishly dressed and connected indirectly with the extortionists, has been taken into custody and a statement obtained from her.

Greed Spoils Plans.

It is suspected the new combine is an off-shoot of the gang arrested last September in a raid on the Tyson apartments on the south side. The ring is reported to have had traps to mulct several persons here ready to spring when the secret service men, through the greediness of the blackmailers, got wind of the combine. The attempt to wring $10,000 from the one victim is not the only adventure of the gang, it is said.

The extent of the activities of the conspirators is not known, however, though evidence is in hand that the syndicate has ramifications in Detroit and Minneapolis, with headquarters in Chicago.

Get Woman in Raid.

That the government is investigating a new blackmail syndicate leaked out after a conference between Walter L. Furbershaw, chief assistant to Hinton G. Clabaugh, who is head of the Chicago secret service branch, First Deputy Wesley Westbrook, and Second Deputy M. L. C. Funkhouser, head of the morals squad. This conference took place from 2 to 4 o'clock yesterday morning and in the middle of it detectives were sent out to arrest some of the would-be blackmailers.

One woman was arrested as a result of the expedition. She was questioned by Mr. Clabaugh, who was awaiting developments in the federal building, and then released. She is said to be a "very material witness," but not "a party to the crime."

Appeals to Clabaugh.

Despite the efforts of both the federal and municipal authorities to suppress the report of the government's new investigation, it became known that a wealthy Chicagoan appealed to Mr. Clabaugh some time ago for aid in shaking off blackmailers who were demanding $10,000 on the threat that they would expose him if he failed to "come through."

This man was with Mr. Furbershaw and his men in the second deputy's office yesterday morning, but his name was kept from most if not all of the city's representatives.

Admits Trips with Woman.

This wealthy Chicagoan is said to have admitted to Mr. Clabaugh that he made two trips out of Illinois with the woman member of the blackmailing gang. One of these trips was to Minneapolis and the other to Detroit. On his return from the second trip the dupe of the syndicate was met with a demand for $10,000 on the pain of being exposed to the government if he refused to pay. He decided to beat the blackmailers to the government, however, and, therefore, hurried to Mr. Clabaugh's office and told his story.

"To talk now would do no good and might do a lot of harm," said Mr. Clabaugh last night. "I can't discuss the case at all. However, I will say that if the elaborate preparations for action yesterday morning had anything to do with a war plot, as has been reported, you would not catch me saying this much."

Lid Is On.

"The lid is on; it's a government case," said Maj. Funkhouser.

"It's a government case; I can't talk," said Assistant Chief Westbrook.

The attempt to clean up the syndicate yesterday morning was characterized by a government man as a "flat failure," but he said that the case "isn't closed yet, by any means."

$5,000,000 FOR CHURCH PENSION

New York, Feb. 18.—Bishop William Lawrence of Boston announced here today that the old age pension fund which the Episcopal church is raising had passed the $5,000,000 mark. Original estimates, he explained required this sum as a minimum if the movement was to be a success.

Health Chief Warns Against Gary Smallpox

Health Commissioner John Dill Robertson yesterday issued a warning to all Chicagoans employed in Gary, Ind., advising them to be vaccinated at once against smallpox.

"Dr. Heman Spaulding, chief of the bureau of medical inspection, has been in Gary for two days and has found five cases of smallpox," said Dr. Robertson.

"I am informed that one man, who had partly recovered, was allowed to go about his work in a Gary factory while peeling. I have sent Dr. W. W. Armstrong to Gary to help the Gary health authorities, but advise all Chicagoans employed in Gary to be vaccinated at once."

FASHION'S BLUE BOOK

BY CORINNE LOWE.

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—We are more ardent horticulturists now than was old Mother Eve when she created trouble for us all by undressing the fig tree for her own selfish purposes. One bit of foliage no longer contents us. Ever since what somebody calls that una-Paisley-able taste first beset us, we are content with nothing less than an orchard of fig leaves.

Thus, the frivolous little "great-great" of Eve attires herself in this frock that is strewn with embroidered petals. Made of a foundation of black tulle, both front and back are achieved by aprons of heavy metal brocade. The aprons are edged with gold lace, and this same gold lace is carried over to the bodice, which is made entirely of this material. An ornament of gold and pearls disputes the right of way of the coronet of frills peeping above the girdle. This girdle is of black satin and it finishes in the back with a flat bow.

Speaking of evening frocks in general, it has been noticed that the great French designers have been exerting their main efforts in the direction of afternoon and sports frocks to the neglect of the decolleté. This fact, arising logically from the ban on evening clothes in Paris theaters, has nevertheless not been able entirely to displace the ever charming evening creation. In all these earliest models there is reported the use of much metallic lace and embroidery—features of the frock shown today. In addition, the evening frock of this spring will depart from the creed of its daytime relatives by being much fuller than the law for straight lines and slender silhouettes allows.

In brief, although we may be as directoire as we like on the street and at the tea, we shall take to ourselves at night a few of the bounding curves of the Marie Antoinette period.

My little niece, who was visiting us, wanted her aunt to make some candy. Her aunt being busy at something else, told her to ask me to make it for her. She came and nicely asked me. Desiring to tease her, I said that I didn't know how, and she said, "Well, come on to the kitchen, I know where the pattern is." H. K. D.

Two Winston Churchills.

"CAN you tell me if Winston Churchill was born in England or not? My husband thinks he is Lord Churchill and I am quite sure he is an American. Will you set one of us right? I shall look for the answer in the Corner. K."

There are two sides to the question, and in a different meaning from that usually attached to the expression, for oddly enough, two men living on different sides of the Atlantic bear the same name, and that not a common title. Winston Leonard Spencer Churchill is the eldest son of Lord Randolph Churchill. He was born in England in 1874. The American Winston Churchill is three years the senior of the two, having been born in 1871, in St. Louis. You see that both you and your husband were partly in the right. The trouble is that each of you was thinking of a different man. Both of the Winston Churchills have achieved distinction in the literary world, but in dissimilar fields.

Matzenauer Cuts Hearing-Time for Sunday Recitalists

BY FREDERICK DONAGHEY.

BY easy argument, Margarete Matzenauer was the most important of the six—two each of singers, violinists, and pianists—who gave Sunday recitals: her success in this season's Opera, recollection of her infelicitous recital of three seasons ago with Ferrari-Fontana, and her bringing Egon Pollak as accompanist were among the reasons for placing her at the top of the list. Either because she did or did not make like estimate of her value, she neglected to adjust her watch when crossing the frontier, and came into Chicago with Oomplatz time, emerging in the Grand Opera-House at 3:55 for a recital billed for 3:30.

Her gracious thoughtfulness in this item of twenty-five in a possible ninety minutes for all recitals made attendance on the others possible—just—by remaining in the Grand to hear her first group only: this was of four trifles by Sgambati, who is associated with pieces for piano rather than with songs. They were nothing to involve her opulent mezzo: she sang them as if she were in leash, eager to get into something with more body and volume. Mr. Pollak, thus far, gave reason to be regarded as an exquisite and sympathetic associate.

Maud Powell played the violin in Orchestra hall in her good way: the way of an aristocrat of the milieu, with suavity, elegance, ease, sureness, and feeling for her program, which was mostly of sure-fire material. The last part of Mendelssohn's concerto, Dvořák's "Song My Mother Taught Me," her transcription of "Deep River," and a wisp of a thing by Hubay—these were what I heard her play with her confident, easy art.

Three of the six who believed yesterday to be the right time for the conquest of the community allowed discretion to mollify the urge, pooled talents, made thirdings of the cost, and took turns in The Playhouse. This is a sane and saving device, and is recommended to other performers who find perturbation in the problem of making the expense of a big-city hearing seem less than the value of the "notices." The group consisted of Edith Ayers McCullough, soprano; Graham Harris, violinist; and Frank Mannheimer, pianist. I heard Mr. Mannheimer in a bit of Brahms and two bits of Chopin, and Mrs. McCullough in four songs: neither, in what I heard, provided reason for regret that each had not gone it alone.

The greatest of the pianists' pianists, Godowsky, was in his final number, twenty-four preludes of Chopin, and in his customary mood of intense application to a task entirely his own business, and not at all a matter of entertainment for those who happened to be listening. Yet, some of the preludes came from the keyboard as lovely, sustained song. He gave, in another mood, two encores—the mood of a man willing slightly to unbend for the diversion of the groundlings—and here his playing was light, graceful, even joyous: the encores were a Scotch dance by Chopin and the Tausic transcription of Schubert's indestructible Marche-Militaire.

Turn Away 1,000 at Final Tribune Ten Cent Concert

THE twenty-five hundred persons who got into the Senn High school yesterday afternoon before Mr. Gunn's American Symphony orchestra began to play the Leonora overture, as well as the thousand or more I saw turned away, and the four hundred who listened to the impromptu second concert, were after listening to music, not after reading accounts of how music is played. Mr. Ira Hamilton, the soloist, and Mr. Gunn, the conductor, are probably the only individuals waiting breathlessly for the appearance of a criticism.

But, inasmuch as THE TRIBUNE money changers have been counting out dollars each week for the benefit of the musical art, it seems justifiable to tell the public how much a part of the public enjoyed Mr. Gunn's musical wares. The proof lies in the fact that more came than could be cared for, and that their eagerness was such that they sent the fireman stationed at the school a long step toward nervous prostration.

There can be no question that these concerts by the orchestra have been increasingly popular. Yesterday the whole community around the Senn High school seemed to decide all at once than an orchestra concert at a dime was a bargain in sensation. Ten weeks ago, when the series started, the public did not seen so sure of it. More than ten thousand persons in Chicago have made acquaintance with music as a pleasure and not as a species of uplift.

It required a skillful diagnosis of public taste to provide music that satisfied the casual ear and demanded at the same time the support of the fanciers in music. Mr. Gunn did that well. Yesterday's program, even to the choice of soloist, was skillfully made. For Mr. Hamilton, who played the Liszt concerto, is clearly the idol of that community. I had evidence—the squeals of delight from young maidens—that locally he is a figure as romantic as composite of Bill Hart and Francis Bushman could be. My ears told me that he is an excellent pianist and it was evident that other people's ears told them the same thing.

Altogether the final concert of the dime series showed that good music can be as popular as the movies.

Mr. Max Linder Is Sure One Brave Frenchman!

"MAX COMES ACROSS."
Produced by Essanay. Presented at McVicker's and Rialto.
THE CAST.
Principally—Mr. Max Linder.

BY MAE TINEE.

MAX LINDER, the suave and small footed French comedian, braved submarines and possible bombs from airships to come over here and make twelve two-reel pictures for Essanay. But he braved something far worse and that is the fact that he speaks no English and must do all his work through an interpreter. Myself, I think him a brave man and if I had any little iron crosses lying around loose I should with the greatest pleasure in life accord him one.

Realizing the difficulties under which the dapper Frenchman has worked, it is not to be wondered at that his first comedy is not the most comical comedy that was ever comedy-ized. Everybody including Mr. Linder, was anxious and everybody showed it. One could picture in one's imagination a perspiring director howling "Non, nein, nin!—or what in blazes do you say to the fellow when you mean what he thinks you don't mean?"

The title, "Max Comes Across," does not mean that he spends his time crossing anybody's palm with the coin of the realm. It means just what it says. Max comes across the ocean and on the way divers things happen to Max. He becomes sick—tummy sick; and he becomes sick—heart sick; and he becomes sick—mind sick; for he's scared to death—thinking of those same submarines and bombs before referred to. There's a great deal of motion and commotion, including that committed by the ship, and it was certainly a rough crossing!

However, in the end, as should be, we find the all sick Max entirely recovered, lauded as a hero, and evidently about to win his heart's desire—the lady who had inoculated him with the love germ.

Subtitles written by a humorist might be an improvement.

There is no reason in the world to doubt that Mr. Linder's next eleven comedies will be excellent ones.

Price of Milk.

THE constantly rising standards of cleanliness have raised the price of many foods necessarily, especially of milk. It costs more now, too, to feed cattle, as it does people, than formerly. Undoubtedly the fact that it costs more to feed the men who handle milk—do all the work from cow to consumer—may have something to do with the rise in price. Take it all in all, perhaps we can find no rise in food prices that is more justified than that for milk for many reasons.

Even at the price we must pay today we are really getting a good deal for our money, although the national dairy show people may have exaggerated a little in one or two of the items of the following comparison. One exhibit had this: "One quart of milk has the food strength of 1 pound and 6 ounces of eggs, 11.8 ounces of beef, 7 pounds of tomatoes, 7 pounds of spinach, 3 pounds of crabs, 4 pounds of oranges, 3 pounds of apples, 2 pounds of codfish, 10 pounds of cabbage, 10 pounds of lettuce, and 6.4 ounces of cornmeal."

People who do not understand what food values of different sorts mean might be mislead by figures like the above, but at the same time these are impressive. A human being, even an adult, can get along without any one of the foods of the comparison better than without whole milk as a part of the diet.

Milk is indispensable in our cooking operations. There are simple ways of using it, like junket, principally used for the sick, by which we may use it for a dessert with profit.

Willfully in Love.

I WAS a green, gawky country boy, had never been way from home alone until I was sent by my fond parents to a far off city to attend college, the president of same being an old acquaintance of my father.

It was scarcely a week before I was hazed—dragged up before a "Kangaroo" court (composed of students) and charged with having "willfully and with malice aforethought," fallen in love with Miss Nelly Main, a fellow student. The charges were apparently proven by trustworthy and reliable witnesses, and it was the sentence of the court that I should be taken at the hour of midnight and thoroughly ducked in the icy waters of a huge watering trough in the near vicinity. The sentence was promptly executed without a complaint or murmur on my part.

Then I was determined to find out who Miss Nelly Main was. This later developed in an introduction, and since she was in all my classes we became good friends, chums, and then sweethearts. Eventually we graduated at the same time.

On the night of the seniors' graduation banquet I asked her to marry me. She consented and confessed that she had "willfully and with malice aforethought" fallen in love with me my first day at college. She had heard about my being hazed and had feared the punishment would cause me to hate and despise her, but instead it brought us together.

We have been married twenty-five years and our son, his mother's pride, graduates from that college next year.

will sing for you, with the appealing sweetness that made her the favorite of the Chicago Opera Company, if you have her exclusive Columbia Records.

Her records of Strelezki's "Dreams" and Shelley's tender "Love's Sorrow" and other famous compositions are gems of expression, warmth and beauty—everything that can make a voice sing itself into the hearer's heart.

Columbia reproductions always have this expressiveness, this human appeal that elevates Columbia Records to the highest plane of art. It takes no critic to detect this difference—it is plain to all hearers of Columbia Records. "Hearing is Believing!"

WITH Ivory Soap in the bathroom you can trust the children to make their own toilets without your attention. The white floating cake is on friendly terms with the little folks from their earliest days.

This liking of the youngsters for Ivory Soap is the most convincing proof of its quality and purity. For, while the youthful minds may not grasp the meaning of "Freedom from alkali", "Freedom from unsaponified oil" and "99 44/100% pure", the youthful skins are sensitive to the slightest deviation from soap perfection.

City's Music Lovers Active in Aiding Apollo's Finances

MUSIC lovers of the city who recognise the excellent work that for years has been done by the Apollo Musical club have been active in making up parties for the part-songs concert to be given by the club this evening at Orchestra hall. A special campaign is being carried on just now by the members to interest the people of Chicago in establishing the club on a good financial basis that it may be enabled unhampered to go on with its work of many years.

Among those who have taken boxes for the concert this evening are Mr. and Mrs. F. T. A. Juskin, Mr. and Mrs. James B. Forgan, Mr. and Mrs. Harold F. McCormick, who cabled from abroad that a box might be reserved in their name; Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Hutchinson, Mr. and Mrs. Julius Rosenwald, Mr. and Mrs. John Nuveen, Mr. and Mrs. Philip D. Armour III., and Mr. and Mrs. Philo A. Otis. "The Return of Spring," a composition by Mr. Otis, will be given as one of the numbers on the program. Miss Helen Stanley will be the soloist.

This is the last of the club's concerts this season, although they will appear again with the Chicago Orchestra in April, when Mahler's Eighth symphony will be given.

A series of six lectures, to be given for the benefit of the University of Chicago settlement, will begin tomorrow afternoon in assembly hall of the Fine Arts building. The series is called "The Awakening World," and the lecturers are contributing their services. They will be given at 4 o'clock for six succeeding Tuesdays. Those who will lecture are, in order, John Merle Coulter, Edward Bobbner Ames, Percy Holmes Boynton, Albert A. Michelson, Ernest Freund, and Conyers Read.

On the executive committee for the lecture course are Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank, Mrs. Morris L. Johnston, Cecil Barnes, Miss Elizabeth Wallace, Miss Caroline Kirkland, William Scott Bond, and George H. Mead.

The second of the series of three lectures arranged by the Chicago Equal Suffrage association will be given tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock at the home of Mrs. James W. Morrisson of 70 Rush street. Dr. Rachelle Yarros will speak on "Social Legislation," and Mrs. William S. Hefferan will explain the pending legislation on school bills.

Many of the boxes for the lecture to be given next Monday evening at Orchestra hall by Mrs. Frances Sheehy-Skeffington on "Conditions in Ireland" have been taken. The lecture is under the auspices of the Irish-American Relief society, and Richard W. Wolfe is chairman of arrangements.

The annual informal dance of the Columbus hospital alumnæ will be held this evening at the Edgewater Beach hotel.

Mrs. Charles L. Hutchinson and Mrs. Edwin A. Ryerson left yesterday for their annual midwinter visit at the Virginia resorts and in Florida.

Mrs. L. J. Hopkins and her daughters, Ruth and Jean, who have had a cottage at St. Augustine, Fla., for several seasons, are there now and are daily visitors on the golf links. They have as their guest Miss Eleanor Holden, who plays golf when at home at the Indian Hill Country club.

Mr. and Mrs. William H. Bush of 1538 North State parkway are at Coronado Beach, Cal.

Mrs. Kate M. Reynolds of 4854 Kenmore avenue left yesterday for St. Louis to attend the marriage of Miss Edmee Ankeuer to Joseph Dooley this noon. The ceremony will take place at the Ankeuer residence, where Mrs. Reynolds is a guest.

Lots of Time to Get Ready—It Takes Place Next Fall

BY CINDERELLA.

NOW that the season of penitence and housecleaning's almost upon us, here's a bit of news appropriate to both occasions. There's to be another rummage sale next November. The committees for it are already forming, and it's to be the most glorious thing of its kind ever known.

The rummage sale's to be under the auspices of the woman's board of the Children's Memorial hospital, and it will take place at the Coliseum Annex in mid-November.

Mrs. Bryan Lathrop has consented to be chairman of the whole, and her co-chairmen are Miss Martha Wilson, Mrs. Mark Cummings, and Mrs. William P. Martin.

An advisory board of five other ladies is included in the executive committee. They are Mrs. John A. Spoor, Mrs. Fred Upham, Mrs. H. H. Shearson, Mrs. Jacob Baur, and Mrs. Augustus Maxwell. Long headed, far seeing women who have accepted the chairmanship of booths are already telephoning madly and engaging their committees.

Anybody who waits until fall to form her rummage committee will, I fancy, find all the good women are picked over—like the man who was saying he liked to leave the Blackstone halls fairly early, as the choice of hats was so poor toward morning.

A huge attic is to be set aside at the Children's Memorial hospital for gifts, which will be gladly received from now on.

And, by the bye, there's to be a select chamber of treasures at the next rummage sale, to which there will be a price of admission. Needlework chairs will never again be sold for $10, nor will old Chinese bowls worth $250 go for $2.50.

Yesterday, cold and bleak as it was, held a veiled promise of spring, and people walked in the parks and motored out into the country looking for pleasant things. But those who stayed in town saw the newest thing out on the Lake Shore drive. This was what seemed to be James C. Hutchins on an autoped.

An autoped is an auto two feet long on which the chauffeur stands, his coat flying in the wind like a Roman charioteer's toga. The autoped flies like the north wind and its driver steers it with a handle that looks like that of a lawn mower.

Mr. Hutchins, who is very tall and was enveloped in a raccoon coat, stood upon the autoped with grace and distinction, and the fact that all the inhabitants turned and stared him well out of sight was nothing in his new life as an autopedist.

Mrs. Fred Upham won an autoped at the Allied bazaar. Ever so many people offered to buy the machine of her, but the fair lady declines to sell and said she would drive the autoped herself in Michigan avenue daily, the way the women do in New York on Fifth avenue. Why not?

They say it's very good exercise to drive an autoped. And, another thing, they're rather inexpensive.

Stage Folk to Attend Union Ball.

About three-fourths of the stage folk now in Chicago have assured officers of the Chicago Theatrical Protective union that they will attend the organization's fourth annual ball at the Coliseum tonight. The proceeds go to the union's sick fund. Last year nearly $3,000 was received from the ball, and it is hoped that mark will be passed tonight.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

JOHN: THE COLD BATH MORNING acts as a tonic for the whole system. It improves the activity of the skin and makes the blood circulate properly. It is one of the best preventives of cold. By frequent cold bathing the skin becomes accustomed to low temperatures, so that drafts are unable to disturb the circulation of the blood. Follow the cold plunge with a vigorous rub with a Turkish towel. A man 5 feet 10 at 27 should weigh 159 pounds.

MISS G. E. B.: IT IS BETTER TO have the lotion for excessive perspiration prepared by a druggist. It would hardly be necessary to have prepared more than two ounces of the lotion. If you will send me a stamped, addressed envelope I shall be glad to send you directions for using it in the armpits.

LAURA: NO, LAURA, EXERCISING as soon as you rise in the morning will not spoil your breakfast. On the contrary! The best time for exercising is in the morning before breakfast. Then is when the vitality is usually at its highest and the movements can be done with greater regularity. Have the room well ventilated but free from drafts. Wear loose fitting clothing, such as a night dress or union suit. Have your feet bare or wear stockings. If the exercises are strenuous practice them for only twenty minutes at first, gradually increasing to thirty or forty minutes.

SIXTY-ONE: A MAN 5 FEET 10 AT 61 should weigh 174 pounds. You didn't tell me how much you weigh, so I don't know whether you weigh too much or not. If you think you have too much flesh over the abdomen I shall be glad to send you an exercise for reducing the abdomen if you will send me a stamped, addressed envelope.

MARY M.: YOU NEEDN'T HAVE a brunette neck and blonde complexion if you use the following neck bleach: Lactic acid, one fluid ounce; glycerin, two fluid ounces; tincture of benzoin, two fluid drams, and water enough to make sixteen fluid ounces. If the skin shows slight irritation discontinue for a day or two and use cold cream.

MRS. M. A. T.: IF YOU FEEL soreness from overdoing the leg, back, and arm exercises, take a ten minute bath in a bathtub filled with water as hot as can be borne, followed by a half hour's rest, and that will put you back in trim again. It isn't well to tire yourself in practicing the exercises.

ALMA C.: THE EMERY BOARD IS used for practically the same purpose as a file, only it is finer and more delicate. It is really sand paper. You use it just as you would a file, working from the outer edge toward the center of the nail. Hangnails can be removed by using the emery board. I shall be glad to send you my instructions for manicuring if you will send me a stamped, addressed envelope.

LIFE INSURANCE CONCERNS STUDY THREAT OF WAR

Weigh Policy Restrictions in Event of Conflict—Views Exchanged.

BY C. M. CARTWRIGHT.

The life insurance companies are again confronted with the method of procedure in case of war. While years ago all the companies had war clauses, absolving themselves from liability in case of death of a policyholders in conflict, or prescribing certain limitations as to liability, during recent years almost all so-called war clauses have been eliminated. Officers of life insurance companies considered the possibility of war remote so far as this country was concerned.

Recently, especially owing to the Mexican imbroglio, more attention has been given to war clauses, and there has been much sentiment in favor of restoring some provision. Companies that have war clauses do not show any uniformity in them, and some months ago the Association of Life Insurance Presidents sounded the companies as to what steps they were taking or what clauses they had to provide against the contingency of war, in order that there might be a symposium of views and suggestions.

Companies Consider Action.

Under present international conditions officers of companies see the necessity of doing something, and there has been considerable skirmishing and interchange of opinion. It was found that as soon as the Mexican trouble loomed up it was a serious situation. When the militia was ordered to the front there was a great demand for life insurance policies. Life insurance companies, especially those that had no war clauses, had to deal with the situation immediately, and most of them sent out temporary restrictions as to such risks.

Some companies refused to write the so-called war business at all. Others took only small policies, and still others had further restrictions. The Association of Life Insurance Presidents suggested that some uniform action might be desirable, so that people would not become confused as to the limitations when a war scare arose. At the time the Life Presidents' association was investigating the subject some contended that companies should be free from liability for deaths in war service for ten years after the dating of the policy. This met with opposition, and no plan was inaugurated.

Likely to Increase Rates.

It is thought should war be declared life insurance companies would immediately increase their rates, so far as military and naval risks were concerned, if they wrote such at all. American companies would not be affected so greatly by the mortality of new risks taken after the war began as they would on policies that are outstanding that have no military or naval conditions. The Spanish-American war did not affect mortality of American companies to any extent. The operations were not sufficiently extensive to result in many deaths.

It is likely that the conditions of the present will show officers of American life insurance companies the necessity of having some sort of war restriction in their policies, so that the people may definitely know what to expect and not have to wait until war is actually declared before they are advised under what conditions they can take out life insurance.

Lowden Rejects Insurance Plea.

The committee of the Illinois Insurance federation that went to Springfield during the week to urge Gov. Lowden to keep the state insurance department independent in its proposed plan of grouping various state bureaus and commissions are disappointed, inasmuch as Gov. Lowden feels that his scheme of economy in state administration requires the group plan.

The state insurance department, under the bill, is placed in the department of trade and commerce. The insurance people contend that the insurance department is the most important one in the state government, both in point of revenue and its relationship to the people. They are fearful lest the subordination of the department will result in competent or experienced men declining to become head of the department, inasmuch as such an employé would be under the supervisor of the group.

Gov. Lowden said if time showed that the change was not a practical or beneficial one the department could be restored.

January Fire Loss Heavy.

January proved a hot month, so far as fire losses were concerned, in the United States and Canada. The total for the month reached $36,631,770, an increase of $15,000,000 as compared with last year. Aside from March of 1916, when there were three southern conflagrations in that one month, they being at Nashville, Tenn.; Paris, Tex., and Augusta, Ga., it is the largest monthly record in six years. Fire insurance companies are complaining of the heavy losses so far, one of the features of them being that large sprinklered risks have burned.

The interest in fire insurance circles during the week was centered in the announcement that the North British and Mercantile Fire Insurance Company of England was the purchaser of the Pennsylvania Fire Insurance company. It was known a couple of weeks ago that an offer of $600 a share had been made to the stockholders of the Pennsylvania Fire. This was 200 points above what it had sold for, and there was much speculation as to the identity of the buyer.

FEWER LOSSES IN COAL MINES

Washington, D. C., Feb. 18.—Fewer men were killed in American coal mines during 1916 than in any year of the last ten, although the year was the most prosperous in the history of mining, with more men employed and a greater tonnage taken from the earth than ever before.

The army of mine workers numbered over three-quarters of a million. Three and three-tenths of each thousand were killed by accident, the lowest death rate in eighteen years and the lowest on record per ton of coal mined.

The number killed was 2,225, which is forty-four less than in 1915, 229 less than in 1914, and 580 less than in 1913. There were 65,000,000 more tons of coal mined than in 1915.

NERVOUS TRADE CHIEF FEATURE IN GRAIN MARTS

Uncertainty Over Political Situation Curtails Speculative Activity.

Last week in the grain market was a period of great uncertainty, this having the effect of reducing the volume of trade to a great extent and making for sprdlic and oftentimes apparently pointless price changes.

As the number of boats reported sunk by German submarines was reduced there was a feeling of confidence on the part of the bulls that the delay in the exportation of grain from this country would be only temporary. There was still an undercurrent of uncertainty in this regard, however, as well as in respect to the possibilities of more serious political developments.

A feature of the week's developments seriously affecting the grain markets was the concerted efforts being made to improve shipping conditions, which threatened to tie up the whole grain trade of the country. Much improvement is looked for shortly.

Seaboard Clearances Moderate.

Wheat and flour clearances from the seaboard have been moderate, but it is claimed boats for the cities are waiting for grain to load that is now held back from the export points by the railroad congestion. Neutral boats have been waiting instructions, but it is believed they will sail soon.

Reports in regard to farm reserves, both of winter and spring wheat, are extremely bullish, most reports indicating the smallest reserves in many years, if not the smallest on record. Receipts have been cut down by the car situation, but from all reports the country has still a moderate amount of grain to offer, and that if shipments permit present visible stocks will soon show big decreases.

The condition of the growing crop is under normal in many sections, according to most reports. Damage reports have been coming in both from the soft wheat territory and from the west and southwest.

Corn Supported on Breaks.

The range of prices in corn has been comparatively small, with the May receiving support on declines to around the dollar mark. Shipping conditions were somewhat improved as a result of the active efforts made to rectify deplorable conditions.

There is a big demand east, and it is also believed the shortage in the Argentine crop will make necessary the largest exportations in many years from this country. Whether the movement abroad will be up to the expectations of the bulls, however, will depend on shipping conditions, which are still far from normal. High live stock prices and the unusually cold winter, making necessary heavy farm feeding, have been factors checking country selling.

Oats Are Relatively Steady.

Oats have met with good buying support, and there has been a relatively firm tone. Big stocks apparently have ceased to be a bearish factor, while the price of oats as compared to corn and other grains is attracting more attention. The east is paying extremely high prices for oats wherever they can be shipped through.

Big prices continue strong and there has been a fair trade in cash products. Provisions continue to receive buying support from leading bull interests, and heavy profit taking so far has failed to break prices materially. Lard stocks are reported light.

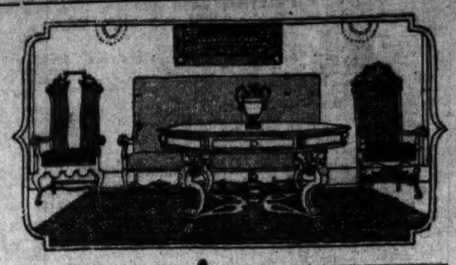
MARSHALL FIELD · AND · COMPANY



Women's Wool Suits for Spring

Hairline striped wool makes the attractive tailleur at the right, its jacket simply trimmed with buttons and arrowheads. Price $37.50.

Wool gabardine has been developed into the more elaborate Suit sketched at the left. Its coat boasts side portions, button delineated, to which large pockets, also outlined with buttons, are attached. A large white broadcloth overcollar follows the lines of the suit collar. This is lined with an exquisite changeable satin in delicate, Spring-like colorings. Price $50. Sixth Floor, South Room.

ALREADY more than three weeks of this month—with its sales opportunities—have passed. However, the Sales of Furniture, of Shoes, of Women's and Misses' Skirts, among others, still afford unusual savings—making the anticipation of future needs well worth while. In this year of fluctuations in the quality of merchandise, when discriminating selection has been needed as in no recent years, it is a noteworthy fact that these annual sales have increased in volume—our patrons' unconscious expression of faith in this Store, for the vastness of its activities, the competence of its organization, the thoroughness of its service. A Store which meets the full range of mercantile requirements, drawing upon the best resources of every nation, elevating the standards of manufacture and exerting a potent influence upon its community.

Women's Blouses Hint of Spring

Crepe Georgette seems to have the approval of every blouse-maker, for nearly all the Spring models which aspire to usee other than sports occasions are made of this dainty, sheer fabric. The Blouse at the left comes in Joffre blue, light gray, white and flesh tints, with horizontal inserts of Venise pattern lace. Price $8.75.

The Blouse at the right is offered in exquisite combinations of white with pink, bisque with blue and white, and flesh tint with white, bead and silk floss embroidered. Price $15.

Tailored crepe de Chine Blouses, $6.75.

Sixth Floor, Middle Room.

February Sale of Women's Skirts

Indefinitely striped woolen is attractively developed into the Skirt illustrated at the left, belted deeply and trimmed with a circular piece at the back. Its pockets are ample and are emphasized by flaring pieces of the fabric. A special value, made possible by the February Sale. Price $12.75.

Wool jersey makes one of the smartest of the white Skirts we have shown. The style is sketched at the right, its inserted pockets outlined with silk stitching, its front panel outlined with pearl buttons. Price $18.50. Sixth Floor, South Room.

Misses' Dresses Feature the New Roll Bottom Style

This effect is achieved by the skirts being gathered to a net foundation, giving somewhat the appearance of a balloon at the hem. Two decidedly youthful examples are illustrated.

Flowing sleeves, Russian overblouse effect front and back, belted in criss-cross manner, and rounded low cut collarless neck stamp the Frock of crepe de Chine at the right as emphatically interesting. Specially priced at $32.50.

Old-fashioned is the drop-shoulder yoke expressed on the Frock at the left, yoke and skirt band being of sheer crepe Georgette embroidered in color. Price $47.50. Sixth Floor, North Room.

Spring Woolen Fabrics

There is a tendency in the Fabrics for Spring of 1917 toward rough weaves with wooly surfaces. This is particularly true of the coatings. And more beautiful fabrics have never been shown, offering rich, soft colorings and textures of exceptional fineness. The assortment is comprehensive, offering all the desirable, wanted fabrics for the coming season. Of special interest are:

Silk and Wool Poplin, printed designs on colored grounds; desirable for frocks; 40 inches wide; yard, $1.75.

Spring Coating, in new shades and very fine qualities, a yard, up to $8.

Silk Voiles for blouses, in all colors to accord with the Spring suits, 40 inches wide, yard, $2.25.

Jersey Cloth—54 inches wide—in many Spring colors, a yard, $3.50.

Cord d'Jerz, similar to Jersey cloth, with a firmer, closer weave, a yard, $4.

Wool-back Satin is used to make modish coats for Spring. This is shown in many bright colors, as well as the usual color range; 54 inches wide; yard, $5.75.

Suits and Skirts Tailored to Measure of Woolens Purchased Here

Already the new Spring models in tailored suits and skirts are being shown. When Woolens are chosen in this Section, we will make any of these models to the patron's individual measure at a moderate pricing. Now is the time to place orders. Skirts, making only, price $5. Suits, including materials and making, $50 and up.

Second Floor, South Room.

The Selection of Spring Millinery Is a Delight in the French Salon

Seldom is it possible to find such seclusion—such perfect appointments—such possibilities for complete concentration on the important subject!

This Room has been created especially for the woman who realizes the leisure and study the proper selection of a smart Hat requires. It contains a number of tiny fitting rooms, each individual, admitting of no interruption or intrusion.

Yet these appointments are but the setting for the charming Hats offered here. These are Hats either created by our own millinery organization, under guidance of one who has had her own atelier in Paris, and who goes abroad frequently to keep in constant touch; or they are the original Hats selected by our resident Paris representative from the most recent showings of the greatest of the French artistes. It follows that the Hat which is chosen from this Salon can be worn with unusual satisfaction. Special displays now.

Fifth Floor, North Room.

The February Sale of the New Spring Silks

Surely this will be a season of Silks, for every woman will wish for at least one frock from the many attractive patterns which are being shown for the first time this Spring. Colors were never brighter nor patterns more original, and the most gratifying thought is that many of this year's Silks were manufactured in this country—an achievement which was thought impossible a few years ago. Four specials today are:

Chiffon Dress Taffeta, 36 inches wide, in light, medium, as well as darker colors; also black and white. Special at, yard, $1.15.

Colored Satin Messaline, 35 inches wide, in a variety of colors. Special, yard, $1.25.

Crepe Meteor and Charmeuse, 40 inches wide, an exceptional color assortment. Special, yard, $2.10.

Crepe de Chine, 40 inches wide, offering many colors, including pink and flesh, for making fine lingerie. Special, yard, $1.65.

Second Floor, South Room.

Silk Skirts Tailored to Measure

The cost for making alone is just five dollars. One has choice of many models, as shown in this Section. Second Floor, South Room.

Favors for Washington Birthday Parties

There are cherries so real that one is tempted to bite into them, and small hatchets which tradition has associated with Washington's birthday since the cherry tree episode. Then there are cocked hats which hide under their crowns receptacles for candies or nuts. Flags and red, white and blue streamers for decorative purposes are shown in a variety of styles. Fourth Floor, Wabash Avenue.

Household Linens

Odd pieces have been specially priced—good values remain from the January Sale—broken lines which we wish to discontinue. Included are:

Bleached Satin Damask Cloths, 72x90 inch, $4.75.

Bleached Satin Damask Cloths, 72x108 inch, $5.75.

Here and There Throughout the Store

Japanese Pewter Tea Caddies, traced with the graceful outline of Fujiyama, would tempt one to make tea every afternoon. They come in sizes appropriate for use on the tea table. First Floor, Wabash Avenue.

Laquered Candlesticks are so constructed as to be easily wired for electricity, to make most desirable boudoir lamps. The patterns with which they are adorned are indicative of their Japanese origin. Price $3. Second Floor, Wabash Avenue

A little metal American Flag as a radiator ornament on one's car is a fitting way to express patriotism. They are offered in two sizes: $1.25 and $2.50, in our Motor Utilities Section, Fifth Floor—The Store for Men.

A special in the February Sale of Furniture is a Wing Chair, of cane and solid mahogany. It is designed on William and Mary lines and is an excellent value for $12. The Rocker is the same price, while a cushion to fit is priced at $3.75. Eighth Floor.

Knitting Yarns

There is a decided pleasure in knitting one's own sweater from bright colored yarns, and the work agreeably fills any idle hours. Aside from this, a sweater for Spring is quite indispensable. New sports models have been received—instructions in the making of which will be given free of charge. Yarns by the ball or skein are offered in every desirable color.

Third Floor, South Room.

Novelty Cottons

These are delicately tinted sheer fabrics that will make charming frocks for Summer, and that they are very moderately priced makes them of more than ordinary interest. Some have satin stripes and others are printed with striking block patterns or have stripes in Paisley and floral designs. While many of the designs are almost extreme, the blending of colors makes them desirable for the most conservative tastes. Price, yard, 75c.

Second Floor, Middle Room.

Tiny Boys' Oliver Twist Suits

These quaint Suits are great favorites with the very small boys who have but recently succeeded to the dignity of trousers.

Two Suits are illustrated: one of fine white poplin has tinted poplin for belt loops, trouser hems, cuffs and collar. Price $2.50. Another little Suit has colored trousers buttoned on to a white bodice with colored collar. Price $2.95.

Coat Suits—$2.95—$3.95

One of these, priced at $2.95, is illustrated. It is made of fine white repp, with collar and cuffs of pink or blue chambray. Another coat style, not shown, is made of mercerized white poplin, its coat and trousers trimmed with color and cord striped cotton. Sizes 2, 3 and 4 years.

Fourth Floor, North Room.

Boys' Regulation Middy Suits—$5.50

Every small boy loves these "sailor" Suits, with their impressive color-embroidered chevrons, their lanyards and whistles.

Mothers will at once recognize their smart style, as shown in the Suit sketched. The collars and cuffs are of very fine navy blue serge trimmed with white braid. The blouses are of sturdy white galatea, and two pairs of trousers are included—one of white galatea and the other of fine blue serge. Sizes 3 to 10 years.

Regulation Blue Serge Suits —$8.50

These are of fine blue serge, trimmed with embroidered stars, chevron, braid and lanyard and whistle. Straight knee trousers. Sizes 4 to 10 years.

Fourth Floor, Middle Room.

The February Sale of Shoes

Already more than two weeks of this exceptional money-saving opportunity have passed. Already many thousands of patrons have taken advantage of these offerings. It must be remembered that NO Shoes are excepted from the savings now offered; these are effective on street and dress Shoes, on Oxfords, Pumps, Riding Boots and Sports Shoes.
